Bayern Munich

Bayern Munich have been criticized for their slow start to the season, with the club not impressing in the opening games of the season. The Bavarians have been leaking goals and struggling to find their rhythm, with coach Hansi Flick under pressure. The team has been criticized for their lack of cohesion and for relying too much on individual players. Bayern have lost their opening two league games, against Freiburg and Bochum, and have only managed to score three goals in total, with Robert Lewandowski failing to find the net in both games.

Atletico Madrid

In contrast, Atletico Madrid have been in good form at the start of the season, winning their opening two games against Granada and Real Valladolid. The team has been praised for their solid defense and for their ability to create chances, with Antoine Griezmann and Joao Felix impressing upfront. The team is currently top of the league table and has scored eight goals in total.
