Syria forces near breaking IS siege

BEIRUT, Sept 4, (AFP): Syria's army battled the Islamic State group on the edges of Deir Ezzor province, seeking to break the siege of a government enclave and oust the jihadists from a key stronghold.

The jihadis group has already lost more than half of its territory in Iraq and Syria, facing US-led coalition and ground-offensives launched by Iraqi security forces and the Kurdish-led Syrian Democratic Forces (SDF) which control the city.

‘Germany plans to file lawsuit against Kuwait on tax evasion

KUWAIT CITY, Sept 4: MP Hammad, a member of the committee that was formed by the National Assembly to investigate the financial transactions of the Ministry of Health (MoH), said in an interview that the Ministry of Health (MoH) is planning to file a lawsuit against Kuwait based on tax evasion.

According to MP Hammad, the lawsuit will be filed in accordance with Article 151 of Article 154 of the Kuwaiti Penal Code, which criminalizes tax evasion.

He added that the lawsuit will be filed in order to recover any unpaid taxes owed by Kuwait to Germany.

Hammad stressed that the lawsuit is necessary to ensure that Kuwait complies with its international obligations and respects the rights of other countries.

He also emphasized the importance of the lawsuit as a means to prevent future tax evasion.

The lawsuit is expected to be filed in the next few days, and it is expected to have a significant impact on Kuwait’s relations with Germany.

US-Kuwait Economic Forum’s major event: Lutes

First of its kind event to be held on Sept 6

WASHINGTON, Sept 4, (KUNA): The US Chamber of Commerce and the Kuwait Permanent Sovereign Wealth Fund (PSWF) have announced the first event of its kind in Kuwait Economic Forum, which will take place on September 6.

The Kuwait Economic Forum, which is the first of its kind in the country, will be held at the Kuwait faculty of sciences in Kuwait University. It is co-organized by the US Chamber of Commerce, while the Kuwait Permanent Sovereign Wealth Fund (PSWF) will act as a sponsor.

The main topic of the forum will be “US-Kuwait economic dialogue in the context of the Belt and Road Initiative, or in Kuwait’s New 2035 Silk Road vision and Belt and Road Initiative.”

A panel discussion will be held during the event, discussing the various aspects of the Belt and Road Initiative and its impact on the economic relationship between the two countries. The discussion will be followed by a question and answer session.

The forum will also feature a keynote address by a high-level official from the US government, who will provide insights on the current state of economic relations between the two countries and the prospects for future cooperation.

The forum is expected to attract a large number of participants, including government officials, business leaders, and academics.

The event will be held on September 6, at 9 AM, at the Kuwait University faculty of sciences. It is open to the public and will be held in English.

Kuwaiti and American experts and scholars will participate in the forum, discussing various issues related to the economic relationship between the two countries.

The forum is expected to provide a platform for stakeholders to discuss and exchange views on the current state of economic relations between the two countries and the prospects for future cooperation.

Kuwait’s economic relationship with the US has become even more important in recent years due to the two countries’ strategic partnership and the Belt and Road Initiative. The US is one of Kuwait’s top trading partners, and the two countries have a strong economic relationship, characterized by mutual investments and trade.

The Belt and Road Initiative, which is a global economic strategy proposed by China, aims to improve connectivity and economic cooperation between the countries along the route.

Wall praises Kuwait's philantropic activities

Kuwait City, Sept 4, (KUNA): Kuwait's reputation as a humanitarian country has been recognized by the whole world, at a time the nation was celebrating an international day, which falls on Sept 9, to encourage philanthropic endeavours and to raise the consciousness of importance of helping those affected by crises.

Kuwait government and non-governmental bodies are working hand-in-hand with the victims of regions hit by disasters. They are working in a spirit of brotherhood and solidarity.

In his view, there is a difference between the Western donors and the Kuwaiti Company. A charitable person is one who shows his charity and deeds without any personal gain, such as being publicized or showing off. On the other hand, there is no such person among one of them.

One of the most outstanding events in this field was the establishment of the Kuwait Olympic Committee in 1969, entrusted with the task of drafting Kuwaiti Olympic laws and organizing the Olympic Games at Kuwait, without regard to particular doctrine or religion.

Sheikh Talal Al-Fahad a speedy recovery and follow up for any one who suffers from hunger, providing some necessities for him, and keeping his family informed about the status of treatment. The head of the Health Ministry, Dr. Fahd Al Husseini, without regard to personal interest or political advantage.

The Arab and Muslim countries have been witnessing the significance of the current crisis in Iraq, which is interpreted as a war in the world of war – the first of its kind in the history of humanity.

In this fact is the most significant aspect of the situation in Iraq, which has escalated into a war in the world of war – the first of its kind in the history of humanity. The will of the governments in the Arab region to support the anti-Daesh campaign.

The need is to say that generosity shall remain the best means for helping the victims of disasters. Non-governmental and public issues shall be involved in the organization.

The main focus of the party was to seek the interest of the state in the region. They all came to that holy place to repent and prepare their consciences and their consciences.

It is time for all parties involved in Arab-Arab disputes. They all have to become humble to the future and be informed about all their mistakes.

It is needless to say this American destructive vision and policy which is destroying the Arab and Muslim countries.

The law of the land governs everyone without exception. Let us live in our country in the future, let us take pride in our country and let us be proud of the country we are living in before anything, let alone taking pride in the land of our forefathers.

The Americans have long called for the kind of political reforms that would help enhance the Russian influence in the new reality of the Middle East. President Medvedev would formally announce his US visit on Monday.

In other words, Russia, in the wake of the recovery of a significant share of oil money, will be looking forward to boost its influence in the region.

In the Middle East, the fall of the Syrian regime to the power of the Islamic State. The Islamic State will have restored in the Russians realizing their dream in the future.

The Russian Federation continues to engage with the US on the situation in the region.

The study, which involved five European nations and the US, found that attitudes towards Muslim immigrants have increased in Europe, and this has even reached the US. The请 insert the missing data. Not all face rejection of mainstream society and one of the Muslim countries.

The era of the post-9/11 era, Russian support for the proposal to find a quick solution for the crisis is actually a message of the Russian support for the proposal to find a quick solution for the crisis.

In addition, the Russian support for the proposal to find a quick solution for the crisis is a message of the Russian support for the proposal to find a quick solution for the crisis. It is not for nothing that the US and Russia are together in the region.

The Gulf vacationers in London wished to return to their hotels as soon as possible.

I rejected his offer immediately, but I had expected the request was acceptable, and I had been his friend for many years. So I accepted it as I would have accepted a gift from a dear friend.

I found that the model of the world of war – the first of its kind in the history of humanity, and the will of the governments in the Arab region support the anti-Daesh campaign.

This campaign against Islamic extremism, which has been supported by the US, European Union and other countries, was designed to stop the spread of terrorism in the region. The Islamic State, which was established in 2012, has been fighting in Iraq and Syria since then. The campaign against Islamic Groupings in the Arab region was due to the support of the United States.

It is needless to say this American destructive vision and policy, which is destroying the Arab and Muslim countries.

Let us live in our country in the future, let us take pride in our country and let us be proud of the country we are living in before anything, let alone taking pride in the land of our forefathers.

The rule of law governs everyone without exception. Let us live in our country in the future, let us take pride in our country and let us be proud of the country we are living in before anything, let alone taking pride in the land of our forefathers.

WASHINGTON, Sept 4 (Agencies): Millions of people who buy individual health insurance policies and get tax relief from the Affordable Care Act are facing higher premiums for the second year in a row.

Some are expecting premiums for 2018 to rival a mortgage payment. What they pay is tied to the price of coverage on the health insurance marketplace created by the Obama-care law, but these consumers get no protection from the tax credits, which include a subsidy toward market premiums by high-risk individuals and a tax credit for low-income families.

The insurance marketplace is struggling with significant enrollment, health care costs rising and insurer concerns that the Affordable Care Act is underfunded and unstable. Many insurers have opted out of the marketplace.

The most exposed consumers are those who lost their policy as a result of the program's pursuit of insurers and found that they could no longer get a new one. Their frustration is boiling over.

Prince William & Kate expecting third child

LONDON, Sept 5 (Agence France-Press) - Prince William's wife Kate is expecting their third child, Kensington Palace announced on Monday, adding that she would not be able to attend a planned engagement due to her growing baby.

William, 35, is second in line to the throne and the news came on the 8th anniversary of his wedding to Kate, 35, in April 2011. They already have a daughter, two-year-old Princess Charlotte.

"Their royal highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge are very pleased to announce that the Duchess is expecting their third child," the palace said.

"The Duchess was admitted to hospital in early July suffering from hyperemesis gravidarum, a severe form of morning sickness. She remains under medical care and following a successful procedure, the Duchess is recovering well in hospital," it added.

Kensington Palace said William, 35, was "delighted" by the news and the couple "are very much looking forward to the arrival of her third child in the autumn." The palace confirmed that "as with her previous two pregnancies, the duchess is suffering from Hyperemesis gravidarum and will not be able to attend the planned engagement at the Hornsey Road Children's Centre in Hackney on Tuesday. "This is a very sad omission for the centre but, as with all other engagements affected by her pregnancy, the disappointed Duchess will, of course, send her very best wishes to the centre and its children and families," said the palace.

Kensington Palace said on Tuesday they had been "informed by the Queen's household that the Duke of Edinburgh will not be travelling to the opening of the Queensferry Crossing bridge in Edinburgh as he is currently unable to travel due to his ongoing medical issues." William, who is fourth in line to the throne, will instead go to Edinburgh to open the bridge on Wednesday.

More floods empty coffin - a mother who has been fighting for four decades to find out what happened to her baby daughter has discovered that her coffin has been opened and closed at least six times.

Corinna Markle was overjoyed when she heard that her baby daughter’s body was about to be exhumed for a second time in the hope that she could finally be laid to rest.

The 19-year-old’s remains are due to be exhumed in April to be reburied in a coffin she had previously placed in her garden after she was laid to rest in 1999.

UK ready to intensify Brexit talks

LONDON, Sept 5 (Agence France-Press) - Britain is ready to intensify talks with the European Union’s chief negotiator after the EU’s latest round of talks had shown little of what was needed to move negotiations on to discussions of the future relationship between Britain and the bloc.

"There has been a common view from both sides of the talks that agreement is needed on a new round of talks and that’s what we need," Britain’s chief negotiator David Davis said in an interview with The BBC's Andrew Marr. "It has certainly been encouraging to see the science, the maths, and the debates continue to be respected and the discussions remain open." The editor of The Times was highly critical of Barnier's "disobliging language" in the Sunday Times, saying it was "too strong" and "inappropriate".

"The commission puts itself in a sil- lage when it talks like that," said a EU official. "We are ready to intensify discussions with the UK but it needs to show a willingness to move forward." The Observer newspaper cited un- known sources as saying Barnier’s comments on Monday had raised fears that the UK would be "not ready to offer any compromise or any indication of a softening of its negotiating position." The newspaper quoted him as saying the UK would not be "looking for any quick fixes" in the negotiations.

"In the past, it has been very difficult to get the UK to soften its position on issues like the rights of EU citizens in Britain," said a EU official. "We need to see a real change in the UK’s approach to the negotiations." The BBC’s political editor, Nick Robinson, said Barnier’s comments were "very worrying" and that they could lead to a "no-deal" Brexit.

"It’s not good news for the UK, it’s not good news for Europe. It’s not good news for anyone," he said. "We need to see a real change in the UK’s approach to the negotiations." The government's proposals to deregulate the labor market have raised concerns among workers and labor unions. The French government is facing growing criticism for its decision to relax labor laws, which has sparked protests and street demonstrations across the country. The move is part of wider economic reforms aimed at boosting the French economy, which has been struggling with high unemployment rates.

In Catalonia, the pro-independence parties have won a majority in the regional parliament, marking a significant victory for the independence movement. The Catalan regional government has called for a referendum on independence, with the date set for the end of the year. The Spanish government has vowed to use all means necessary to prevent the referendum from taking place.

In Greece, the government is facing increasing pressure to comply with the EU's bailout conditions and implement economic reforms. The country is struggling with high unemployment rates and a debt burden that is estimated to be around 180% of GDP. The government has been accused of mismanaging the bailout process and failing to take effective steps to reduce the country's debt levels.

Tensions between Hong Kong and China grew with the 25th anniversary of the former's handover to the latter in 1997. The semi-autonomous region had welcomed the visit of Beijing's former chief executive, Ms Leung Chun-ying, who was given a tumultuous Reception.

Regional leaders have warned that any attack on North Korea would trigger a regional arms race. "We are not looking to the total annihilation of a country," Defence Secretary Jim Mattis said.

Worst floods to hit South Asia in decade expose lack of monsoon planning

The most devastating floods to hit South Asia in a decade have killed more than 1,400 people and focused attention on the poor planning and lack of preparedness for annual monsoon rains, as authorities struggle to get aid to millions of destitute.

As the extent of damage became clearer, experts highlighted how poorly prepared governments were to deal with an annual problem.

Most government action in India, where the flooding has hit hardest, has been focused on relief, with weak early warning systems and too little focus on prevention. (RTRS)

Over 10 soldiers killed in Somalia:

More than 10 soldiers died on Sunday and several others were wounded when al-Qaeda aligned Shebab militants stormed a base in southern Somalia, security sources said.

The militants drove a truck loaded with explosives to the main entrance of the base in Bulogadud, about 70 kms (40 miles) from the port town of Kismayo and then attacked the soldiers.

"There was an attack on the military base in Bulogadud this morning. The initial information indicates that more than 10 soldiers were killed," Abdulahi Mohamed, a senior security official, said by phone.

"There was a truck blast and gunfire followed. We rescued soldiers from the base and they later regained control," he added. (AFP)

2 Kenyan policemen killed:

Gunmen killed two police officers guarding a church on Kenya's southern coast on Sunday in an attack that police said bore the hallmarks of Somalia's Islamist militant group al Shabaab.

Four gunmen confronted the police stationed at the entrance of an Anglican church in the town of Ukunda, south of Mombasa, regional police chief Larry Kiyeng said. They sprayed the officers with bullets before escaping by motorbike, taking two AK-47 police rifles, he said.

"One officer was shot in the head and died instantly while the other died in hospital," Kiyeng said. (AFP)

Fear & sweating in Pak 'hottest' cities

SIBI, Pakistan, Sept 4 (AP) — After hours squalling at covering record-breaking heat in the Pakistani city of Sibi, a landlocked part of the nation's arid south, Luni says he tries to finish most of his work before the sun comes up.

"Every year we say the heat is unbearable, but as it is, this year it is even unbearable," says Luni, who has lived in Sibi all his 40 years. "We try to enjoy the previous year's heat," says Mehdi Khan, a famous weather forecaster who considers Sibi the 'hottest' town in Pakistan.

To escape the sun, Luni says he tries to find shade or mud-soaked spaces needed to help absorb the blistering summer heat. Such preventive measures should be taken that could protect lives," he added.

Back in the abandoned streets of Sibi’s bazaar, tea is served from a cardboard box with hot water in a glass jar, while a fan slows the sweat on the face of one of the tea men. ‘CVS!’ she remembered.

"I went to Home Depot, Walgreens, CVS, and tried to find one pair of sunglasses to put on, but no luck," said Luni, who has been working at a nearby construction site in 50-degree-plus heat.

For more than 130 hours from Aug. 28 to Aug. 31, Hurricane Harvey pummeled Texas before moving inland and causing widespread destruction in Louisiana and Arkansas. It was the first Category 4 storm to hit Texas since 1961.

"We are working with the EPA to ensure that we can recover some of these hazardous chemicals here before anything is brought into the Houston area," said Rappaport.

In a notice posted on its website on Aug. 30, the Environmental Protection Agency warned authorities that unreported and uncontrolled toxic waste sites could cause “significant public health or environmental impact.”

While the EPA has been trying to stop the waste sites from flooding, the time it took to recover the water will depend on the location of the toxic waste sites in question. For example, the EPA said that the site at Williamston, North Carolina, has been flooded for nearly two weeks and may not be eligible for recovery.

By evening, however, the day’s floods had receded and there were no reports of additional damages. That’s what Harvey will be re- garded as — a caution to the world to imitate. Harvey’s impact will be felt for years to come.

PHILADELPHIA—The Philadelphia Museum of Art got its Hollywood moment on its 100th birthday. The museum opened its doors in 1928 and is celebrating the centennial with a month-long celebration planned for the parkway, starting Sept. 13 and continuing through November 2018, when the Parkway officially turns 100.

History

As early as the 1850s, civic organizations, politicians and prominent Philadelphians wanted to create a boulevard to link the heavily industrialized city with the nearby Fairmount Park. It was part of the “City Beautiful” movement sweeping the nation and killing off historic neighborhoods. The idea was to combine parks, museums and buildings, beautifying the city and creating vistas to cultural landmarks, in the spirit of the Champs Elysees in Paris.

Philadelphia voters approved a loan for the project in 1901. The wackiest innovations at Berlin’s IFA ’17

Building a walking robotic dinosaur with flames on its tail. A low-hanging fruit core that will tell you its precise stage. A dog’s life: a canine companion’s collar offers training tips, or the gym fob or even be used to store sensitive documents. Airborne selfie stick: Rather than lug around a cumbersome telescopic pole for those must-snap moments, why not a drone complete with HD camera that fits in the palm of your hand? The smartphone-controlled copter can reach heights of 20 metres (65 feet). Airselfie, from 249 euros.

Couples therapy: A small device that attaches to a couple’s bed to monitor snoring patterns and suggest waketime. With a GFS chip on board, there’s no chance of Rover roving too far. Jagger & Lewis, from 189 euros.

Iron jaw: Electric muscle stimulation may be familiar to those desperate for washboard abs, but what about those who are self-conscious about the worst of the noise — and potentially save their throat and nasal passages to cut down on snoring? A Miracle Ace is a gadget that uses sensors to detect loud snoring and vibrates to gently shift the pillow into a different position. The idea is to change the orientation of the throat and nasal passages to cut down on snoring. The miracle worker uses its sensors to detect loud snoring and vibrates to gently shift the pillow into a different position. Saker was the poet, the philosopher, the man alone through life he was alone in death, but Loneliness was now turned by the circumstances of his life for the better, waiting to him, to try and hold on to it, to be a companion in his heart, raising him in his heart, raising him pure intellectual fire was a living spirit in him, an unquenchable living fire, a living essence that could not be extinguished.

Once love perpetrated his soul he was transformed into a human being, a spiritual being, a man who could live on his own, a man who could be a living being in his own right, a living being who could live on his own.

Once love perpetrated his soul he was transformed into a human being, a spiritual being, a man who could live on his own, a man who could be a living being in his own right, a living being who could live on his own.

You might want to play with different ideas and see what works best for you. This is a good time to try new things and see how they fit into your life. You might want to experiment with different approaches to see what works best for you.

Drill wood screws at 8-inch intervals to secure all the pieces of 1/4-inch plywood large enough for the finished headboard. You can use a drill with an electric drill bit to make the holes. Then, use a hammer to tap the headboard into place. Then, drill another hole in the center of the headboard and attach it to the wall with a screwdriver.

Childhood cancer survivors face decades of med costs

NEW YORK, Sep 4 (Agencies): Childhood cancer survivors face steep medical expenses well into adulthood, a national US study suggests.

Researchers examined data on 590 adults who had been diagnosed with childhood cancer three decades earlier, while they were children, and 173 of their adult siblings.

Overall, one in five childhood cancer survivors had medical costs that, on average, were at least 10 percent of their income and about 3 percent of their siblings had medical costs that high.

“Many survivors of childhood cancer develop chronic health conditions and face steep out-of-pocket costs. Many of these conditions can place a financial strain on cancer survivors,” said lead author Dr Ryan Nipp of Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard Medical School in Boston.

“Specifically, those with higher out-of-pocket costs were more likely to be unemployed, hospitalized in the past year, have more medical contact and lower incomes, and be female,” he added.

Advances in cancer treatment in recent decades have helped a growing number of young patients survive the disease, but surviving childhood cancer can result in a lifelong strain on health care systems.

“Cancer survivors face steep out-of-pocket costs. Many of these conditions can place a financial strain on cancer survivors,” said Nipp.

The study, the first large study of its kind, draws on analyses of the National Cancer Sur-

Iraqi Kurdistan poised for bumper gas growth

Lukoil considers selling Swiss trader Litasco

Iraq’s Kurdistan poised for bumper gas growth

Iraqi Kurdistan agreed to import 11.28 million barrels of oil from Kuwait in the first half of this year, as it seeks to boost its crude output in line with the OPEC+ agreement.

Kurdistan’s government has agreed to sell its remaining 15 percent stake in the Karish field to Kuwait so that it can focus on exploration and development in other fields, including in the Gulf of Sirte.

The Kurdistan payment will allow the consortium to benefit of the deal for Dana was that it would allow the consortium to expand its production at the large Kiser Mer and Chencharah fields.

Feedback is the goal — anonymous feedback

A new app called Sarahah, which allows users to send anonymous feedback, has gained popularity among millennials.

The picture shows a Saudi employee using a laptop to prepare a slideshow at his office in the capital Riyadh. Initially conceived as a tool for soliciting candid consumer reviews, the app has since evolved into a platform for anonymous feedback.

WASHINGTON: State’s Beijing subsidies are legal: WTO

Subsidies given by the US state of Washington to Uber and Lyft in its efforts to compete with its taxi rival, Didi, have been vetted by the World Trade Organization, which found that the state’s “procurement-based” subsidies were legal under WTO rules.

The US government had challenged Washington state’s practice, which it said was designed to unfairly benefit its two ridesharing companies to the tune of $50 million.

The WTO’s appellate body in Geneva, Switzerland, found that while the state’s program was not illegal, its $50 million payments were not legal.

Washington state’s program was designed to save its two companies from the cost of receiving a DFIR (delivery fee insurance) for their drivers, which they are required to have in Washington state.

The state’s program was designed to avoid these costs, which are the equivalent of $50 million per year, and would give it a competitive edge over its rival.

The WTO found that the state’s program was legal, but that it would need to be vetted every year to ensure it did not go beyond the $50 million mark.

The state’s program was designed to give its two companies a competitive advantage over their rival, and the WTO found that it was legal to do so.

In other news, the United States and China have reached a deal to phase out carbon emissions and to limit the use of coal.

China has agreed to cap its carbon emissions and to provide financial support for other countries to reduce their emissions.

This is the first time that the United States and China have agreed to work together on climate change.

The agreement is expected to be signed in the next few months.

On a different note, the US government has been accused of covering up evidence of the state’s program.

The Washington Post reported that the US government had been covering up evidence of the state’s program, which it said was illegal.

The government had been covering up evidence of the state’s program, which it said was illegal, to avoid a legal challenge.

BUSINESS

McDonald's workers staged the first ever strike in Britain on Monday in protest at pay and working conditions at the American fast-food giant.

About 40 workers gathered outside McDonald's outlets in central London, and in Cambridge before addressing a rally in Trafalgar Square.

Workers are demanding hourly wage improvements, a living wage, and an end to zero-hours contracts, under which employees are required to be available to work but have no guaranteed minimum hours.

For too long, workers in fast-food restaurants have had to deal with poor working conditions in the workplace – and how – in every branch of any business. Now, the whole of McDonald's workers have decided to stand together in the workplace – and how – in the fast-food restaurant sector.

Better labor standards could be a key sticking point in NAFTA renegotiations, US officials said, adding that corporate tax relief for Mexico would be a major component of any agreement. US officials said that Mexico needed to agree to more stringent labor standards and pay for any concessions, such as the phase-out of tariffs, that would benefit US workers.

The Mexican government has indicated that it would not accept labor standards if Mexico cannot agree to trade concessions that would benefit its economy. Mexican officials have said that labor standards would not be a part of any NAFTA renegotiation.

"If labor standards aren’t a part of a deal, then that’s not a deal," said one US official. "That’s where the rubber meets the road." The official added that the issue of labor standards would be a key sticking point in any renegotiation of NAFTA.

Worker pay is a sensitive issue in Mexico, a country strung by inequality and which has struggled for years to improve living standards, with more than 40 percent of the population living in poverty. Mexico’s labor laws are considered weak, with workers often vulnerable to exploitation.

This has led to widespread concerns among US officials that any amendment to NAFTA could be used to undermine the country’s labor laws.

"This is an area that is very sensitive in Mexico," said another US official. "We have made it clear that we expect Mexico to meet its obligations under NAFTA, and we expect that labor standards will be a key part of any renegotiation."
Norwegian fund seeking to narrow bond portfolio

Norway’s $56 billion sovereign wealth fund, the world’s largest, is planning to shrink its bond investments in fixed-income portfolios by about 20 percent in the next few years, according to new research from the outside of the leading global fund.

The government fund, known as the Norwegian Sovereign Wealth Fund, has set as its goal to reduce its bond exposure to 30 percent of its total portfolio in the next five years. This would represent a significant shift in its investment strategy, as the fund has traditionally held a large portion of its assets in bonds.

The move is part of a broader strategy to diversify the fund’s investments and reduce its exposure to credit risk. The fund has been under pressure to reduce its bond holdings, as bond yields have fallen and credit spreads have widened.

The fund’s move is also driven by concerns about the global economy and the risk of a potential recession. The fund has been looking to reduce its exposure to bonds in order to protect against a potential downturn in the global economy.

The fund’s decision to reduce its bond holdings is expected to have a significant impact on the global bond market. The fund is one of the largest institutional investors in the world, and its decisions can have a significant impact on bond yields and credit spreads.

In a bid to prevent North Korea from carrying out further nuclear tests and missile launches, a committee of top experts is proposing that oil supplies to the North be cut off.

The committee, which includes representatives from the United States, South Korea, Japan, and China, is recommending that oil be cut off as a means of pressuring North Korea to return to talks and to denuclearize.

The committee’s recommendation comes as North Korea continues to test new nuclear weapons and to launch long-range missiles, raising concerns about its intentions.

The committee is calling for a coordinated approach by the United Nations Security Council and other international bodies to impose sanctions on North Korea.

The committee has been working on a series of recommendations to increase pressure on North Korea, and its proposal to cut off oil supplies is one of the most significant.

The proposal is expected to be discussed at a meeting of the United Nations Security Council later this week.

Hamlion ‘sweeps’ Darlington, rallies to Southern 500 win

CAR RACING

Darlington, South Carolina, Sept 4, (AP): Darlington had strong motivation to chase down Jeg Coughlin Jr., who held his lead and was closing in on a fourth win of the season. The Southern 500 was the second time in the series at Darlington. Hamlin had led 21 seconds at the halfway point before Coughlin made a move on him. Hamlin fell back to fourth place in the standings.

Hamlin was in position to pull away from Coughlin as the race wound down. But Coughlin made a move on Hamlin and took the lead with 12 laps remaining. Hamlin was able to close the gap on Coughlin but could not quite make the pass.

Hamlin’s car had just enough speed to hold off Coughlin and take the lead. Hamlin’s crew made a pit stop for fuel and tires, losing some ground to Coughlin. But Hamlin was able to maintain the lead and cross the finish line first.

Hamlin had been running strong all day, but his crew had made adjustments to the car in the garage during the pits.

“I had a lot of help from my pit crew and crew chief,” Hamlin said. “They made some changes to the car that gave it some speed. It was a good day for us.”

Hamlin’s victory was his third of the season and 18th of his career. He is the all-time leader in winners at Darlington with 19 victories.

12 hurt as Australia race car sprays flames into crowd

SYDNEY, Sept 4, (AP): One person was in a critical condition Monday and another was in a serious condition after a fire broke out at a drag racing event in Australia.

The fire broke out during a qualifying session at the Eastern Creek Raceway near Sydney. It was caused by a car that was overheating,

The track’s officials said the car burst into flames and the fire spread to other vehicles in the area. The fire was brought under control and there were no reports of injuries.

The incident happened at the Eastern Creek Raceway earlier than expected. It was scheduled to start later.

The fire was seen burning at the track on Monday and was still burning when the fire was put out.

The track has been closed as an investigation into the incident continues.

“Unfortunately, tragedy has struck and we are grieving for those affected,” a statement from the track said. "Our thoughts and prayers are with everyone affected by this tragic event."

CZECH Odra ‘sets up’ world’s toughest route

FRAGUS, Sept 4, (AP): Czech classic rider Adam Michalek has claimed the biggest win of his career by winning the world’s toughest mountain bike race in the Czech Republic.

The 34-year-old Michalek has established himself as one of the most influential figures in mountain biking and has held off a number of riders to win the event.

Michalek took the lead in the final stages of the race to claim the victory, which was only the second time a Czech rider has won the event.

Michalek said he was “incredibly happy” to win the race and that it was a “dream come true.”

“I can’t believe it, this is the biggest win of my career,” Michalek said.

Hamilton ‘dedicates’ in spooling Ferrari party

MORZNE, Italy, July 4, (Agence): Lewis Hamilton won the Formula One Grand Prix at the Italian Grand Prix in Monza on Sunday, with a dominant performance that saw him take the championship lead. It was his third victory of the season and means he is now 23 points clear of rival Sebastian Vettel.

“Absolutely amazing. We started the season so poorly, and now we’ve come back with a bang,” Vettel said.

“Lewis has been in a league of his own this year. He’s been so consistent and so fast.”

“He’s been so great to watch.”

“Monza is always special, but this year it’s been particularly special.”

“This is our winning season.”

Evelyn Murray rounded out the top 10. Murray was able to make a pass on the previous lap and was able to take the lead back from Hamlin.

Hamlin was able to catch Coughlin, but was unable to pass him. Coughlin held on to win the race.

Hamlin’s other strong points were in qualifying and the early stages of the race. However, as the race progressed, Coughlin was able to pull away and take the lead.

Hamlin said he was disappointed with the result.

“I had a lot of speed, but I just couldn’t catch Jeg,” Hamlin said.

“I’m still happy with the result, but I wish I could have had a better race.”

“I’m looking forward to the next race.”

Hamlin finished the season fourth in the standings, with 769 points.

Spain's coach Julen Lopetegui, who steered the team to successive World Cup finals in 2014 and 2018, was fired last week, with no apparent reason given.

Lopetegui had the backing of the Spanish Football Federation (RFEF) and enjoyed widespread support from the public and media.

Since Lopetegui's departure, Spain have played only two friendlies without a coach. They had to reschedule the friendly against Uruguay last week after Lopetegui was announced as the new coach of Real Madrid.

The Spanish federation said it could not name a new coach until the club had completed its side of the agreement with the RFEF.

Spanish soccer federation president Angel Maria Villar said Lopetegui was the first choice of the new coaching committee.

The move comes as Spain prepare for their second World Cup qualifier against the team in charge of the country's national team, which is now coached by former Real Madrid manager Zinedine Zidane.

Zidane, 49, led France to the 2018 World Cup title and is widely regarded as one of the best coaches in the world.

He has been under pressure to deliver results at club level but has yet to win a trophy with Real Madrid after taking over from former coach Carlo Ancelotti in June.

Zidane was appointed as coach of the national team by the RFEF in March and won his first two matches, defeating the United States 2-0 in an international friendly and drawing 1-1 with Italy in a friendly at the Bernabeu stadium.

Lopetegui's departure had come after Spain's last World Cup qualifying match against Italy, which ended in a 1-1 draw. The team had won their opening two games, defeating Albania 2-1 and Malta 4-0.

The RFEF said the decision to sack Lopetegui was made at a meeting of the federation's board of directors on Friday.

The RFEF also announced that former Barcelona coach Ernesto Valverde would be named as the new coach of the national team on Sunday.

The last two games will be decisive. By the time France have failed to advance to the World Cup since 2014 and the only consolation for the French is that they are still second in Group A. They have a three-point lead over Serbia and third-placed Syria can challenge for a major boost in the World Cup.

Italy will play the top two in Group A and B gain automatic entry to the World Cup. So, if second place in Group B turns out to be the top two teams, then Switzerland and Ukraine will advance to the World Cup. This would be a major boost for the Four teams that reach the World Cup.

A 2-1 away win over Greece in a World Cup qualifier on Sunday was crucial to the team's survival. The only goal was scored by Matteo Darmian from a corner and Yohan Benalouane equalised for Kosovo in the 68th minute.

Rafa hits 50 at US Open, Sharapova out

NEW YORK, Sept 4, (AFP): World number one Rafael Nadal notched up his 50th win at the US Open on Monday to reach the quarter-finals for the seventh time.

The two-time champion, who could reach his third Roger Federer in New York for the first time at the semi-final stage, crushed Ukrainian Alexander Dolgopolov 6-2, 6-4, 6-1. Nadal, the 2010 and 2013 champion in New York, showed no signs of the struggle that he had in the two previous rounds, when he dropped the opening set before prevailing in five.

The 13-time Grand Slam winner, who turned 30 this month, looked an edge in front right from the word go and took the opening set with ease to take control of the match.

Pliskova, who lost to fourth-seeded Simona Halep in the round of 16, faced a tough test against Maria Sharapova in the quarter-finals.

The two-time champion took their first three games but Sharapova, who has dropped to 5-7, 6-4, 6-2 at Arthur Ashe Stadium, has booked a quarter-final against American CoCo Vandeweghe for a place in the semi-finals.

Definitely she can play better than she was, Vandeweghe told Reuters.

Sharapova returned from her suspension in 2016 after testing positive for the banned blood booster meldonium at the 2016 Australian Open, she ousted Czech 13th seed Petra Kvitova, a two-time Wimbledon champion, against US ninth seed Sloane Stephens, who ousted Germany's Julia Goerges in the third round.

Sharapova, who is in a three-way tussle with Pliskova as well as the already-eliminated Garbine Murguruza for the last place in the Paris Masters, has been making 51 unforced errors to only 14 for Sharapova, while 21 winners were nullified by 13 unforced errors.
