Red tape tangles up visas for skilled foreigners: data

WASHINGTON, Sept 20, 2017 (AA) – The Trump administration is making it more difficult for high-skilled foreigners to obtain work permits, according to US immigration lawyers and business leaders, who say the move is likely to slow business growth in the US.

The US immigration agency has been批准visas for the much-needed foreign labor, particularly in the tech industry, healthcare and education sectors.

The move is likely to have a significant impact on the US economy, as the country continues to face a shortage of high-skilled workers.

In addition, the increase in the number of RFEs (requests for evidence) could increase the cost of hiring foreigners, as companies are forced to spend more time and money on the visa application process.

Companies are concerned that the increase in RFEs could slow down their ability to attract and retain top talent, as well as impact their ability to compete in the global economy.

The Trump administration has been criticized for its anti-immigrant policies, which have led to a decrease in the number of foreign workers coming to the US.

On the other hand, immigration lawyers say the increase in RFEs is a positive development, as it is helping to ensure that only qualified candidates are granted visas.

Companies are concerned that the increase in RFEs could slow down their ability to attract and retain top talent, as well as impact their ability to compete in the global economy.

The Trump administration has been criticized for its anti-immigrant policies, which have led to a decrease in the number of foreign workers coming to the US.

On the other hand, immigration lawyers say the increase in RFEs is a positive development, as it is helping to ensure that only qualified candidates are granted visas.

The US immigration agency has been reviewing visa applications for high-skilled workers, in a move to ensure that only the most qualified candidates are granted visas.

The increase in RFEs is likely to have a significant impact on the US economy, as the country continues to face a shortage of high-skilled workers.

In addition, the increase in RFEs could increase the cost of hiring foreigners, as companies are forced to spend more time and money on the visa application process.

May hopes to end cabinet disquiet with Brexit speech

EU seeks post-Brexit powers

Boris Johnson, a leading voice for Brexit, threatened to resign if she advocates permanently paying more than the UK's current contribution to the EU budget. He subsequently denied reports he had threatened to resign, and confirmed he would remain in the cabinet.

The idea for the statue gained momentum following the death of Emily Davison, an equestrian who died after running out onto the track to protest against King George V's presence at the Epsom Derby in 1913.

France clears migrants

A luxury hotel chain has helped the French authorities to clear more than 350 migrants from a camp on the northern coast near Calais. The migrants were packed onto buses, bound for migrant centres in 10 different regions of France.

Grand Synthe lies 30 kilometres north of Calais and was home to 10,000 people – in and around the camp and nearby refugee centres. Some 350 men, women and children present and around 40 women. I imagine that to be almost impossible for them. I imagine, too, those who are living in squalid conditions would think that to sleep in hotel rooms would be a dream.

There was a large-scale operation on Monday before the operation.

The French authorities ordered the evacuation of the camp because it was overtaken by the police.
JAPAN'S EMPEROR DIES

Japan's 85-year-old Emperor Akihito, who has left behind a vacuum of leadership since his sudden abdication last month, is due to visit a shrine in Tokyo. In a visit that symbolises his role as symbolic head of the state, the emperor's six-minute journey to the shrine is expected to be attended by thousands of people. Akihito served as emperor from 1990 to 2019, making him the longest-reigning monarch in Japan's history. The visit, which is a traditional ritual performed by Japanese emperors on the first day of the year, marks the first time Akihito has paid a formal visit to the shrine since his abdication.

TRUMP ASSAULTS N.KOREA

US President Donald Trump has threatened to be catastrophic if North Korea tries to use a nuclear or missile attack. During his visit to the Pacific, Trump reiterated his warning that US military action in the region would be an option if North Korea continued to develop nuclear weapons. In a rare intervention in foreign policy, Trump expressed his support for a diplomatically-led approach to ending the North Korean nuclear threat.

DIVIDED EMPEROR

Japan's emperor is expected to visit a controversial shrine in Tokyo on Saturday, a move that could further strain relations between the country's government and its people. The visit comes amid growing calls for Emperor Akihito to step down due to health concerns. The emperor, 85, is due to visit the Yasukuni shrine, a site that enshrines more than 2.4 million war dead, including some convicted war criminals, and is seen by many as a symbol of Japan's past military aggression. The visit is likely to spark protests and controversy, with some calling for Akihito to abdicate to pave the way for a new era of reconciliation.

AELIA NADEŽDA RALLIES AMERICANS

Democratic Party of Japan's leader Aelia Nadežda has called on the US government to halt its military presence in South Korea, saying that the deployment of THAAD missiles in the region is a threat to the peace and security of the peninsula. In a statement, Nadežda said that the US military's presence in South Korea was a source of tension and instability in the region and called on the US to withdraw its forces to promote peace.

THE TERROR ATTACK

The body of a man who died in a terrorist attack in New York has been identified as 29-year-old Sayfullo Saipov, a truck driver from Uzbekistan. According to reports, Saipov was driving a rented panel truck when he barged into several pedestrians and cyclists in lower Manhattan, killing eight people and injuring over 60. Saipov was later shot dead by police officers after he crashed his truck into a barrier and exited the vehicle.

SYDNEY, Sept 20, (AFP): A first wave of refugees will be resettled in the United States in return for a major financial prize, with the deal reportedly in the works since last year. The US government has struck a deal with Australia to receive some of the thousands of asylum seekers who have been held on Nauru and Manus Island in the Pacific. The deal was announced on Monday by US President Donald Trump.

TRUMP'S WARNING FIRM & SPECIFIC

US Secretary of State Rex Tillerson, in a Fox News interview on Tuesday, highlighted Washington's policy of provocative North Korea through sanctions. "We have the strongest sanctions ever put in place. We believe those are really only a start of those strong efforts," he said. "Ultimately, though, we're going to insist on the assistance of the people within the regions."

The US State Department has also said that Trump's comments about North Korea are "firm and specific". The US has recently imposed new sanctions on North Korea in response to its missile and nuclear programmes. The US believes that North Korea is a serious threat to international peace and security.

TRUMP'S COMMENTS ON NORTH KOREA

US President Donald Trump has said that North Korea is a "very big threat" and that the US is ready to use military force if necessary. During a press conference in New York on Wednesday, Trump reiterated his message of deterrence to North Korea, saying that the US is "very well armed" and ready to defend its allies if needed.

"We view the Trump administration's policy toward North Korea as more coherent and realistic than the previous administration's," said a senior Trump administration official.

"We must prepare ourselves for the worst, but we will negotiate as long as possible," Trump said.

Trump also expressed his support for a peaceful solution to the Korean Peninsula, saying that the US is open to discussions with North Korea. He said that "we have a lot of options" and that "we will use them if necessary."
Kabul arms civilians to protect ‘mosques’

KABUL, Sept 20, (AFP): Afghanistan is arming thousands of civilians in a bid to protect mosques during one of the holiest months in the Shiite calendar as a result of attacks on Shiite religious sites.

The government’s move comes as it considers an increased threat from Rhodesian extremists amid ongoing negotiations to end the 14-year war.

The government has been criticized for its slow response to the recent attacks on mosques, with some accusing it of not doing enough to protect the shrines.

Meanwhile, the situation in Pakistan has worsened, with over 1,000 people killed in a Taliban attack on a military base.

Shiites targeted by Islamic State jihadists

The Islamic State (IS) has reportedly targeted Shiites in several countries, including Afghanistan, Iraq, and Syria, with attacks on mosques and shrines.

The organization has been identified as the primary group behind attacks on religious sites, with its leaders vowing to strike at any place where they believe the foundations of Islam are threatened.

Tricky “goes clean, darker”

PARIS, Sept. 20, (AP) - After a string of rifles over the past decade, Tricky has found it time to come clean. The former frontman for the band “Tricky” recently told The Associated Press that he is ready to bid his drug-filled past goodbye, and that he's going to focus on being a father to his newborn daughter, who he says, “is my reason to be as clean as I can be.”

Tricky said he has been clean for months, and that he has been focusing on his family. He said he is ready to put his past behind him and focus on a new chapter in his life.

“Frances Moore,” the band’s former lead vocalist, also praised Tricky for his change in direction. “I’m really happy for him,” she said. “He’s been through a lot, and I think it’s time for him to move on to something new.”

Tricky’s new album, “Ununiform,” is due out on Friday, and it features a mix of genres, including hip hop, rock, and electronic. The album is a departure from his previous work, which was characterized by its黑暗 sound and politically charged lyrics.

Tricky said he is excited to share the new music with fans. “I’m really proud of this album, and I think it’s gonna be a great success,” he said. “I want people to be able to connect with it and feel something.”

Street-art icon Basquiat gets UK show

LONDON, Sept 20, (AFP): The explosive works of Jean-Michel Basquiat, a trailblazer of the New York art scene of the 1980s, are to be shown in London starting this week in his first major British exhibition.

The former graffiti artist, who died in 1988 at just 27 years old, mined a huge range of influences including jazz, pop culture, African and pre-Columbian art and old masters in producing his dynamic and abrasive paintings, earning him a devout legion of supporters.

Basquiat, born in 1960, learned his trade in the late 1970s in the post-punk underground art scene in downtown New York, where he met Andy Warhol, the godfather of pop, and became a protege of pop-art icon Andy Warhol.

He always had the television on in the studio, always had books spread open and might think of this as the beginning of the information age,” said Nairne. “We are living in an information society and a lot of material.”

His “Untitled” work sold for a record $110.5 million (92 million euros) in New York this year, a sign the increasingly high esteem in which his work is held.

Muguruza pulverises Puig to reach quarters

Kuwati City, Sept 20: The sports circles are looking forward to the meeting of the General Assembly of the Kuwait Football Association (KFA) on Oct 31, 2017, to elect a new board of directors instead of the new interim board led by Sheikh Al-Sabah, reports Al-Arabi daily.

This meeting and new elections aim to take an important step to meet the requirements of the International Football Federation ( FIFA) to lift the ban imposed on Kuwait in successive years, because KFA is keen to recognize the dissolution of the KFA headed by Sheikh Talal Al-Fahd.

The clubs, Al-Nahda, Al-Talaba, Al-Yarmouk, Al-Sadd, Al-Hilal, Al-Wakrah, Al-Qadsia and Al-Salimah have expressed their desire to sit on the board and the conference in the former board which was dissolved by the Public Authority for Youth and Sports and the formation of a temporary committee until the elections are held on Oct 31 to set up a new board.

Other names proposed for the post of president and the candidacy of Sheikh Ahmad Al-Yousef has been announced by the Kuwait Club.

He previously headed the federation as a successor to Sheikh Ahmad Al-Fahd. He also chaired a managerial committee between 1998 and 2002.

Al-Qadsia wanted to promote Sheikh Talal Al-Fahd to rank for the post but this scenario is to be declined in the assembly. However, Al-Qadsia wanted for his support the candidate put forward by clubs or boycott the elections.

The name of Fawaz Al-Hassawi has been sounded, but he is waiting on the sidelines until situation becomes clear.

However, for the time being his candidacy has been ruled out.
