HISTORIAN RICK ATKINSON Digs deep into Revolutionary War

By Michel Italie

ARAB TIMES, WEDNESDAY, MAY 22, 2019

The Visits

Author Richard Ford to be honored by Library of Congress

Continued from Page 14

The group honored Mitre Clutterbuck as FWG President for the year 2019-2020 and gave her a token of appreciation to reflect the importance of the work she did during her tenure.

On this occasion, the group hosted Dr. Al-Ashhab, who gave a powerful speech introducing the audience to the history of the IOH and its contributions to the academic and cultural community in Kuwait.

The evening concluded with a traditional Kuwaiti dance performed by the members of the IOH, and the audience was left with a deeper understanding of the rich cultural heritage of Kuwait.

Dr. Al-Ashhab gives powerful speech to Kuwait women’s achievements

Author Richard Ford to be honored by Library of Congress

Continued from Page 18

The deadline for submitting applications is Sunday, June 30, 2019.

For more information and on chapter member-ship, will be accepted.

For information and other conditions can be downloaded from Embassy’s Web- site: https://www.sowashiwa.com/10201506

In the 18th century, the Revolutionary War was the first major war to be fought with the new technologies of the Industrial Revolution, which had changed the way war was conducted. The Revolutionary War was also the first major war to be fought with the new technologies of the Industrial Revolution, which had changed the way war was conducted. The Revolutionary War was also the first major war to be fought with the new technologies of the Industrial Revolution, which had changed the way war was conducted. The Revolutionary War was also the first major war to be fought with the new technologies of the Industrial Revolution, which had changed the way war was conducted. The Revolutionary War was also the first major war to be fought with the new technologies of the Industrial Revolution, which had changed the way war was conducted.