Kuwaiti footballers to gain pro status on privatisation

Report by Faisal Al-Muawali

KUWAIT CITY, Nov 3, (KUNA) - Kuwaiti sports clubs are closer to sealing deals with their foreign players after a minority of Kuwaiti commissioner teams reached agreement with their players to offer them full contractual rights of their citizenship.

It comes as a precursor to Asian and Gulf champions who are set to join the AFC Champions League.

The latest development comes on the heels of a previous agreement, which was reached by the KSL and the Ministry of Interior.

The agreement is expected to help the clubs in retaining the services of their foreign players for the upcoming season.

The clubs have also agreed to provide financial compensation to the players in the event of their termination of contracts.

The deal is expected to be signed on Wednesday, which will allow the clubs to continue in the AFC Champions League.

The professional sports law will target foreign investors, said the official, as well as tighten sanctions on the violators.

Alongside ownership by Kuwaiti nationals, the move will also be open to locals, deeming it “important, crucial and necessary,” the official said.

The recommendations include closing down clubs and suspending their participation in competitions for three years. For each incident, the clubs will face a fine amounting to 25,000 dinars and a reduction of six points from their total points.

AFTAl remains supportive of the proposal, emphasizing the need to comply with respecting the laws and regulations.

“This is the first time an action of the nature in the country. It is almost impossible to use the same tools that are currently being applied, such as when the Serious Crimes Law, when blacklisting and blacklisting. The sanctions can only be applied in this manner, it’s a great step forward. Furthermore, the law will ensure that all clubs abide by the laws and regulations,” AFTAl said.

On the other hand, AFTAl, acting on behalf of Kuwaiti clubs, has called for a reduction in the number of points deducted, stressing the need to take the law seriously.

KUWAIT CITY, Nov 3: The Demographics Committee, formed by State Minister for Defence and Aviation Affairs Mohammad Al-Aqeel, has submitted its reports with proposals and recommendations to handle the population structure imbalance and find suitable solutions accordingly, as well as tighten sanctions on the violators.

KUWAIT CITY, Nov 3 (KUNA): Kuwait has funded some 1,035 small and medium enterprises (SMEs) in the last three years, at a cumulative cost of KD 177 million ($584.4 million), the country’s Public Authority for Industry (PAI) said on Sunday.

The information was revealed by PAI’s Deputy Director General Mohammed Al-Adwani amid talks to promote homegrown goods, sponsored by Kuwait’s Commerce Minister Khalid Al-Roushaid.

Small and medium development projects give impetus to sustainable growth, generating ample job opportunities, he added, adding that the government has put in place an enabling business environment to host foreign investment.

A crucial step in this direction is the focal point of Ku-wait’s Chamber of Commerce and Industry, which is been focusing its strategy to transform itself into a global commercial hub.

Global

The government has taken tangible and concrete steps to ensure that local goods would ultimately be synonymous with world-class standards, he said, adding that the PAI was the official, at a time where the world continues faster than ever.

Kuwait’s Chamber of Commerce and Industry is the driving force behind entrepreneur- ship in the country, said Falah Al-Luwayz, a Board of Trustees member.

Supporting local industrial output is not only limited to the purchase of local goods, rather, it encompasses numerous fac- tors, including keeping SMEs aloft, he added.

Kuwait’s competition protec- tion authority has been formed with the purpose of protecting the national economy, said the watchdog’s head Dr Rashid Al-Azmi, pointing out that the state body seeks to eliminate any forms of irregularities plaguing the local markets.

As an economically-free country that encourages open trade, Kuwait’s local industry secures an ever-growing workforce, according to Kuwait Industries Union’s chair- man Rashid Al-Kharafi.

Bank’s total revenues up to end of first half is KD 46.22 million

KUWAIT CITY, Nov 3: The Credit Bank’s second quarter financial report for the fi- nancial year 2019/2020 revealed that the bank’s total revenues up to the end of the first half amounted to KD 46.22 million, a 48 per- cent reduction of the estimated local net profit including KD 37.5 million of total mort- gage income collected until the end of June or 48 percent of the estimated budget reports Al-Rouai Daily.

The report pointed out that the downturns in the third quarter (investment projects) in the bank decreased by 11 per- cent during the second quarter compared to the approved expenses, and the decrease in operating income by 7.8 percent amounting to 10 million dinars due to non- realization of the total interest on bonds Kuwait Fund for Arab Economic Develop- ment at the end of the local year.

Kuwait City, Nov 3: The Ministry of Social Affairs says it will not approve the renewal of licences for pharmacies located in cooperative societies, except for those that abide by law No. 30/2016, reports Al-Rouai Daily.

Minister of Social Affairs Saleh Al-Mubarak affirmed that the ministry will take legal measures against the pharmacies in cooperative societies that do not abide by the aforementioned law.

In response to a parliamentary question, he explained that the ministry gives out the pharmacies for invest- ment based on the request of the cooperative society after verifying its commit- ment to the relevant laws, as no pharmacies belong- ing with expired licenses have been blocked for investment by Kuwaiti individual except for the pharmacy located in Grandina Cooperative Soci- ety which was found ac- cording to the provisions of the law.

‘Richter Talk’ first episode commences

KUWAIT CITY, Nov 3: The first episode of the second season of the program “Richter Talk”, presented by entrepreneur, marketer and interlocutor Bader Al-Essa, began broadcast on Al-Rai TV, reports Al-Rai.

The new season carries a big leap at the challenge faced by the company in the Arab forms area, special expertise is required to deal with various problems, such as pressures and high temperature, in addition to the challenges of offshore drilling and platforms when it comes to implementing the company’s plans.

As for the companies’ plans to implement the exploration and production strategy in the 2019-2020 plan, Al-Sultan confirmed that there are many future projects to be implemented by the company in the north, west and south of Kuwait, and emphasized that despite the challenges, KOC is constantly working to find appropriate solutions that prioritize the optimization of areas and oil reservoirs in drilling operations, and study similar difficulties in neighboring countries and the solutions they apply.

State project implementation

KUWAIT CITY, Nov 3: The Kuwait Oil Company (KOC) Chief Executive Emad Al-Sultan unveiled a plan for the company to relinquish land after updating all data and geological and geophysical studies, pointing out that KOC has ceded about 6,100 kilometers to government entities, reports Al-Rai daily.

Sultan told the daily the company ceded land permanently to implement the state projects, while ceding other land on a temporary basis for the implementation of natural reserves, saying that the Arab forms area is the most important challenge facing the operations of the KOC because of the possibility of extensions of oil reservoirs pertaining to the Sabriyah, Al-Rayawan, Sodira, Al-Qahaniya and Umm Naga oilfields.

Plans

As for the challenges that hinder the drilling operations, Al-Sultan explained that in addition to the challenges faced by the company in the Arab forms area, special expertise is required to deal with various problems, such as pressures and high temperature, in addition to the challenges of offshore drilling and platforms when it comes to implementing the company’s plans.

He added other challenges include the exploration and drilling operations in the marine areas, west of Kuwait and Kuwait Bay, to distance these areas from oil facilities and logistics, which require large areas for the implementation of the company’s future projects.

Strategy

As for the company’s plans to implement the exploration and production strategy in the 2019-2020 plan, Al-Sultan confirmed that there are many future projects to be implemented by the company in the north, west and south of Kuwait, and emphasized that despite the challenges, KOC is constantly working to find appropriate solutions that prioritize the optimization of areas and oil reservoirs in drilling operations, and study similar difficulties in neighboring countries and the solutions they apply.

Divided nation lurches toward '20 election

WASHINGTON — Despite Trump’s political success, the president’s political capital has already been spent — and exhausted. He has failed on major initiatives, he has grown isolated — and now, with the Senate controlled by his party, he stands with little margin for error, should he choose to hold his ground.

Polling

In fact, the president’s approval rating has dropped significantly in recent weeks, and it now stands at just 39%, a new low for his presidency. Furthermore, the Democratic Party is expected to raise $1 billion in the next six months, significantly more than the Republicans.

Economy

The economy is expected to remain strong, with GDP growth at its highest level in five years. However, the Federal Reserve is expected to raise interest rates, which could dampen consumer spending.

Immigration

This week, the Trump administration announced plans to cap the number of refugees allowed into the country at 18,000, a decrease from the previous year’s cap of 30,000. The move has drawn criticism from human rights groups and some members of Congress.

Testimony from a litany of administration officials is expected to be released this week, including testimony from former Secretary of State Rex Tillerson. Tillerson, whom Trump fired in a tweet earlier this year, has reportedly told Congress that the president was “unstable” and “impulsive.”

Politics

The political division today reflects the divided nature of America — and the country it represents. The political dynamic has shifted, with the Democrats now controlling the House of Representatives, while the Republicans control the Senate. This divide has led to a lack of cooperation, and has slowed the progress of important legislation.

Trump OKs plan to cap refugees at 18,000 in 2020

PORTLAND, Ore. Nov. 5, 2019. (AP) — A federal judge has blocked President Donald Trump’s plan to cap the number of refugees allowed to enter the country at 18,000 in fiscal year 2020.

The order by Judge Michael J. McShane in Portland, Ore., says the government cannot enforce a new rule announced by the Trump administration in September that limits refugee admissions to 18,000.

McShane said the government was not entitled to relief under the “equitable toll” doctrine, which allows the government to temporarily halt a statute if it cannot be administered.

The proclamation signed by President Donald Trump in early October allows refugees to enter the country in fiscal year 2020 at the same level as the previous year, 30,000.

The proclamation, signed by President Trump on Sept. 24, limits the number of refugees allowed to enter the country to 70,000 in fiscal year 2020, a decrease from the previous year’s cap of 110,000.

In a statement issued Saturday, Secretary of State Mike Pompeo noted that refugee resettlement “is only one component of our efforts to reduce illegal immigration and to protect the health and safety of our nation.”

The move comes as the Trump administration continues to restrict legal immigration, including green cards for relatives and family members of U.S. citizens.

The order by McShane is the latest in a series of legal challenges to the Trump administration’s immigration policies.

Socialists lead; poll

Catalans against secession alarmed by recent violence

BARCELONA, Spain, Nov 5 (AP) - As a first test in its new role as Europe's top naval bastion, Madrid has put its mightiest asset to the task of containing one of Spain's most menacing defyants.

But instead of hostile craft calmly cruising the Mediterranean, Spain's military forces are working to keep the working-class town of Puigcerdà and its maverick leader, Torra, in line. The city and its mayor,quartz, have been peaceful.

But as Spain enters a tense election campaign ahead of the Nov 10 vote, key Catalan separatists are vowing to go ahead with their campaign for independence, making the city a test case for the country's future.

Many separatists believe the recent violence is part of a government plot to discredit them ahead of the election. However, many voters say they are fed up with the violence and want a peaceful resolution.

A separatist supporter, wearing a 'Liberate Catalonia' banner, cheers in front of the Puigcerdà prison before a hearing for Torra and other separatist leaders.

Johnson presses for Brexit breakthrough

Johnson pressed hard for an early national election on Dec 12 in which he hopes to win a seat in the British Parliament, the December election, but the prime minister focused on Brexit, which he says is worse than a no-deal Brexit.

Johnson said the government's policy is to "serve the cause of Brexit" better than the opposition, with its "one-theme pa-ty" likely to present a "dive in the trough"

The government's announcement of a vote comes after the Labour Party's decision to set aside its no-deal promise and focus on Brexit as the key issue in the upcoming election.

The government has also announced plans to hold a second Brexit referendum, with the option of leaving the EU without a deal.

Johnson said the country is divided over Brexit, the outcome is uncertain, and the government will do its best to deliver the result of the Brexit vote.

He said: "This is a critical moment for our country, and the only thing that can make a difference is a change in leadership.

"I believe the country is ready for change, and I am ready to lead it."

Mother-to-be fed up of cleaning in solo house

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby,

I have just given birth. I am the new mom on the block and I’m trying to learn the ropes of running a household of two. However, my husband and I have been cleaning our apartment together for over a decade and we’ve come to enjoy it. I have heard that it’s expected that the baby’s parents will equally share the cleaning duties. However, my husband and I have never been able to agree on this. He is always busy with work and he doesn’t have enough time to clean. I feel like I am doing most of the work. What do you recommend? – Maid in Nevada

Abigail

Dear Maid,

You might want to talk to your husband and make a plan. It’s important that you both agree on how you will divide the tasks and responsibilities. It’s okay to have different priorities and interests, but it’s important to communicate and find a way to make things work for both of you. Good luck! – Abigail

WASHINGTON, Nov 3, (AP):

Measles weakens children’s ability to fight other germs.

Doctors have long known that recovering from measles leaves children more vulnerable to bugs like flu or diarrhea, but new research in the Netherlands has found that kids’ bodies against that virus – but ones that last for years.

Scientists started looking for antibodies in the blood samples taken from 77 children born in the Netherlands between 1998 and 2006. They found “immune amnesia” of research published Thursday in the journal Science.

The committee described hearing of two children who contracted measles, and after a measles outbreak in their community in the Netherlands. They looked for antibodies, which can protect against other viruses, in the children’s blood and found they had only low amounts of antibodies for five to seven years after their measles vaccination.

“The finding ‘immune amnesia’ means that not only do children fail to produce antibodies against measles, but once they’ve previously harbored against other germs haven’t disappeared,” the mother, Julie Nye, a school of public health, lead author of the study, said Dr Michael Mina of Harvard’s genetics of research published Thursday in the journal Science.

And with measles on the rise, “it ultimately recovery but after a measles, said Dr Anthony Fauci of the US National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases and the US National Institutes of Health, which also supports AP’s Health & Science Department.

The committee described hearing from parents of young people with disabilities who wasn’t involved with the new research.

“I had my son vaccinated and I couldn’t live in a world where this happened,” the mother, John Elledge, who was involved with the new research.

Another mother described her son’s experience, who was in a state at one time or another.

Elledge is paid a competitive salary, and his research is supported by the National Institutes of Health, which also supports AP’s Health & Science Department.

This inquiry has shown with stark clarity the urgent change that is needed,” committee chair Harriet Harman said in a statement. The system intended to evaluate and improve the way young people with disabilities are treated.

The vote is a powerful statement about the importance of protecting the vulnerable and our society’s image of itself as one that respects everyone’s human rights.”

THIRTEEN: A shot in the dark.

There is no question that the ele-mant of luck plays a major role in the outcomes of many deals. Even so, a holy trick often is accomplished by skilful play if the beneficiary is in on his or her good fortune.

Consider this case where South arrived at four spades after West had spoken with a weak no-trick bid. West led the heart ace and continued with a second heart, ruffed by declarer.

South did not care much for his choices. With no entries to dummy, it likely would be easy to lose a spade, and possibly two diamonds in addition to the heart already lost.
Nevertheless, he pressed onward, playing for a generous assist from Lady Luck.

After cashing the ace of spades, he led a low diamond to the queen, hoping it might provide an entry to dummy. But when East produced the ace and returned the ten of diamonds, that hope went a-glittering.

Declarer won the trick with the king and had no choice but to lay down the king of spades. When the queen appeared, Lady Luck bade him a fond farewell and left him to South was fully up to the task. After drawing the missing trump, he cashed the jack of diamonds, revealing the 4-3 split. East was now certain to get a diamond trick, and it was declarer’s job to turn that development to his own advantage.

Accordingly, South cashed his last two spades, bringing down to A-Q of clubs and the seven of diamonds.

East had no problem discarding on the first spade, but was forced to let go of his last heart on the second spade in order to hold the nine of diamonds and K-J of clubs.

Declarer now led six diamond, and East was a dead duck. He won the nine with the ten and then had to return a club, allowing South to take the winning club finesse for his contract.

Big central banks move to ‘wait-and-see’ mode

Easing wave appears to have crested for now

WASHINGTON/FRANKFURT/TOKYO, Nov 3 (Reuters) - Easing out of record low interest rates and measures to lift economic growth have put a brake on the world’s central banks looking to loosen global financial conditions by the first quarter of 2020, economists and market watchers said on Friday.

However, technology, demographics and globalization changed our economy

Airbnb CEO says company is banning ‘party houses’

Airbnb Inc. says it's banning “party houses” for the upcoming Halloween season, in an effort to quell complaints about loud and rowdy gatherings during the most hectic time of the year for the short-term rental company.

The San Francisco-based company said in a statement that it had received “too many reports” of “violent, deadly, dangerous and damaging” events in properties rented for Halloween.

The move comes as Airbnb has been working to address concerns about the impact of its platform on host communities and neighborhoods. The company has been facing criticism for the proliferation of large parties hosted on its platform, which have sometimes led to vandalism, property damage, and even injury or death.

Airbnb said it had received reports of “hostile and violent” incidents, as well as instances of life-threatening violence and death, at properties rented for Halloween. The company added that it had also received reports of “significant property damage and dangerous conditions” at properties rented for the holiday.

Airbnb said it had a duty to protect its communities and neighbors, and that it would not tolerate “violent, deadly, dangerous and damaging” events at properties rented for Halloween.

Procter & Gamble, rivals investing in refills

Procter & Gamble Co. and its main rivals are stepping up efforts to dive into refilling endeavors to turn household products into a more environmentally friendly option.

The consumer products company is embarking on this year’s holiday season with an array of new refilling programs aimed at reducing waste and increasing convenience for shoppers.

P&G said it plans to introduce four new refilling options across its portfolio by the end of the year, including refillable bottles for its Tide laundry detergent and Folgers coffee.

France, Germany step up efforts to build rivals to US cloud firms

France and Germany are stepping up efforts to build cloud services rivals to US tech giants Amazon Web Services and Microsoft in a bid to cut their dependency on cloud services.

The European Union’s effort is aimed at reducing the dominance of US tech companies in the cloud services market, which is dominated by AWS and Azure.

The EU said it would aim to create a combined market share of more than 15%, with a focus on local and regional cloud services.

But Indian tourists are still less accustomed to the US compared to their counterparts at travel shows and exhibitions, as well as to social media pages and blogs. The US is still a relatively new destination for Indian tourists, with a growing interest in American culture and lifestyle.

In the meantime, some US competitors are seeking new sources of income, such as from Chinese tourists, who are increasingly looking for different travel experiences and are willing to pay a premium for them.

And with the rise of online travel agencies and the availability of cheaper airfares and hotel rates, the US travel industry is facing increased competition.

While the Americas are home to the world’s biggest travel market, the US also offers a unique mix of natural beauty, historical sites, and cultural attractions that attract millions of visitors each year.
