Future looks ‘bleak’ if situation continues for long time: Al-Hajri

Philippine embassy is all set to assist Pinoy amnesty applicants

Kuwaiti fast-track exams

MoE looking for solution to pay overdue salaries

Kuwait笈M City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.

Kuwait City, March 30: The Prime Minister and his ministers announced a new initiative to ensure that students do not miss out on exams. The education ministry has launched an online portal for students to register for exams and submit their results. The initiative aims to provide students with flexibility and reduce the burden of preparing for exams in person. Students can now apply for online exams and receive their results within a week. The initiative is a response to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, which has disrupted traditional exam schedules.