Bid to help out Lebanon

KSE launches 'campaign' to restore damaged buildings

KUWAIT CITY, Aug 11: The Kuwait Society of Engineers (KSE), in cooperation with the Federation of Arab Engineers, headed by Kuwait, launched the campaign under the title 'Arab Engineering' in solidarity with Lebanon, reports Al-Seyassah daily.

The aim of the campaign is to offer engineering and technical consultations and some building materials to help Lebanon restore the buildings damaged by the Beirut Port blast, in addition to providing financial support through governmental and trade union organizations and institutions separately by each country.

The President of the Union and the President of the KSE, Engr Faisal Al-Atal, said during the emergency meeting of the heads of the engineering societies and the executive office of the Arab Engineers Federation, which was held via the 'video-link' "We thank the Arab engineers for their response to our invitation to hold this meeting and discuss launching of the Arab engineering campaign to support brotherly Lebanon during its ordeal.

He pointed out 18 presidents and representatives of most Arab unions, societies, and engineering bodies that are members of the Federation and a number of members of the Executive Office reflected their keenness to provide possible support to Lebanon.

In his speech, Al-Atal said, "We are keen to respond to any requirement from colleagues in Lebanon," and explained, "We have received from the brothers in Lebanon their need for some building materials such as glass, wood and aluminum."

In turn, the KSE representative, Eng. Muhammad Al-Subaie, said the Kuwaiti engineers support any Arab decisions to help the brothers in Lebanon, pointing out that their initiative includes three main axes, the first is to provide immediate financial support through official channels, and the second is to form an engineering survey team of experts to provide advice and technical support for the, and the third urged engineers and concerned authorities to cooperate with the syndicate in Lebanon.

Many impounded vehicles stolen from Municipality yard ; 'fence is improper'

KUWAIT CITY, Aug 11: A member of the Municipal Council Eng Hamoud Al-Enezi says Kuwait Municipality's vehicle impound yard in Salmi area has been experiencing a series of thefts because the compound is not properly fenced and secured, reports Al-Qabas daily.

In a press statement, Eng. Al-Enezi indicated that the present location of the municipality's vehicle impound yard is in the desert area where the roads are not paved and the area lacks services and security.

He stressed that some sites are not fenced and the ones that are fenced can be easily infiltrated, adding there are cases of thefts and vehicle vandalism reported every month.

Eng Al-Enezi said he aspires, through the Municipal Council, to secure the site and put a fence around it, especially since the current location holds about 5,000 thousand cars worth about KD five million.

He urged the concerned officials to respond to the requirements of the workers in the center.

Governor briefed: The Governor of Ahmadi, Sheikh Fawaz Al-Khaled, was briefed on the resumption of work for the second semester for 2019/2020 academic year for the twelfth grade in which 6,200 governorate's students participated, reports Al-Seyassah daily.

The Governor thanked God Almighty and the great efforts exerted by the General Director of the Ahmadi Educational Area, Mansour Al-Dayhani, and the region's affiliates of various degrees and areas of specialization.

Al-Dayhani, also expressed his thanks and appreciation to the Governor of Al-Ahmadi for his interest and diligent follow-up of the various aspects of the educational process in the governorate, and referred to the very important instructions and directives given by the Governor during his meeting at the General Office of the Ahmadi Governorate two weeks ago, which, he said, had the greatest impact.

Al-Daihani pointed out the officials of the Ahmadi Educational Area made inspection visits to a number of schools, in order to look into the preparations and follow up the issue of distance education, through video-link classes and according to the prepared schedules and according to the plan of the public education sector at the Ministry of Education.

He praised the extraordinary efforts exerted by the department directors, educational stage supervisors, and technical mentors for school officials and teachers, and for all those who made efforts to train male and female teachers in the area of video-link teaching in all secondary schools for boys and girls in the region.

Corruption cases: Although the cases of corruption keep popping up every now and then, this has not deterred others from indulging in this dirty activity, reports Al-Anba daily.

In a new case, a director of a government department is charged with accepting cash as bribe to offer a contract to the company.

According to a source the Public Prosecution has ordered the imprisonment of the suspect and the owner of the company for 21 days. They have been sent to the Central Prison pending investigation.

Surgeon sued: An unidentified Syrian has filed a complaint against a plastic surgeon accusing him of a failed surgery on his buttocks, reports Al-Seyassah daily.

The Syrian, according to what a security source told the daily, has filed the complaint with the Salmiya Police Station.

In his complaint the Syrian said he is not satisfied with the desired results. He said after the surgery he has lost his balance and unable to walk properly.
