When government delayed in rescuing the sector, this was the time, that the sector was in need of help. Now that it is done, it's too late.

It is a shame that government does nothing or very little, while the government is well-off. The sector will not fix what the government has done.

There is one thing that is necessary to improve our country is the establishment of a special fund and with a set of rules that are the involvement of all of the companies, and the ministries and the government to recognize the medical workers in the work of the coronavirus sector. The absence of clear economic management, both in the sector of medical workers, and those who were supposed to be paid by the government for their work, will be a problem. Instead, the government will be involved in paying the bills of the companies that were supposed to provide guarantees.

On the other hand, our government set up a plan to facilitate the legal infrastructure; for instance, the bankruptcy law and facilitation procedures. The absence of clear economic management, both in the sector of medical workers, and those who were supposed to be paid by the government for their work, will be a problem. Instead, the government will be involved in paying the bills of the companies that were supposed to provide guarantees.

Your Highness the Prime Minister, I want to thank all of those who have the support of our government, but I want to thank those who support our policies and our strategy in the coronavirus sector. I want to thank all of those who have the support of our government, but I want to thank those who support our policies and our strategy in the coronavirus sector.

The government was in a position of wrong side, due to the fact that we have a policy that is dealing with the situation of those who are not in the right side. MoE’s decision on disabled students draws resentment

Distance equivalence suitable for disabilities capable of handling device

KUWAIT CITY, Aug 26: The decision of the Ministry of Education represented by the Private and Media Education Sector not to allow the educational process to be conducted for people with disabilities through distance education or student attendance at schools sparked a wave of resentment among the students and their parents, stressing the decision is unfair and negatively affects the future of students, reports Al-Qusba daily.

Parents and activists in unions of people with disabilities condemned the Ministry of Commerce and Industry for putting a price tag on the produce of farmers – the price does not cover the cost price especially during extreme weather conditions.

The ministry said the vegetable crisis makes one believe we are walking in the opposite direction because in terms of self-sufficiency the government depends on Saudi Arabia as some of its products are not sufficient for its consumption needs as it is not enough for the local market.

A number of Kuwaitis and expatriates bitterly complain about the shortage of vegetables especially coriander, parsley, and milk, which has reached the market due to the ongoing crisis that started a few days ago, which is attributed to the Ministry of Commerce and Industry.

In the midst of this experts and people in the market explained that the price distortion due to the decline in the supply of agricultural produce needs which is not enough for the local market.

"No normalization ... will lose economic opportunities"

"Why the State of Kuwait has stopped at the station of the 1960s?"

"COMMUNAL treatment of those of Kuwaiti race under difficult circumstances cannot be tolerated, as everyone, especially those who are in charge of the educational system, should bear in mind that the education in this country should be a bridge that offers the opportunity of freedom and a source of knowledge for all students who come from all ethnic and religious backgrounds, and not a tool that divides and discriminates against the other."
KUWAIT CITY, Aug 26: The Public Authority for Housing Welfare (PAHW) is currently working on 43 projects, ranging from housing projects, schools, homes and services, and public roads projects for residential cites, estimated at more than one billion dinars, reports AL-Seyassah daily.

These contracts include the construction of 1,040 apartments, 31,548 housing plots. The public buildings include the construction of 14 kindergartens, 38 schools, 53 mosques, 38 housing units for inmates and museums, 5 subterranean caves, 4 central markets, 34 groups of stores, 4 printing groups, and 5 police stations.

This is in addition to six health centers, 3 fire stations, one center for the Quran or the Koran, three Dar Al-Dinwaya for the elderly, and others. The construction works in the public buildings include the construction of a number of roads complex with lighting, the extension of cables and main and subsidiary power transformer stations, a surface asphalt layer, ground tanks, underground wells, linking alternative service roads and buildings, and road electrical works.

According to the daily Al'Mada’s residential city projects has the largest percentage for ‘residential projects’, with 18 different projects, between infrastructure, roads and public buildings, as well as the ‘bans on nationals’. The remaining contracts of the Public Authority for Housing Welfare covers the maintenance and construction of public buildings, paving roads in Al- Wafra, Sabah Al-Ahmad City, northwest Al-Sulaibikhat, and East Fahaheel.

Money-launderers buying invoices, bills from companies to justify their income

University doctor acquitted of indecent assault

KUWAIT CITY, Aug 26: Sources have sounded the alarm about the recent spate of the money-launderers who have been under pressure to purchase invoices and bills from existing companies for a fee to justify their purchases and income in general, ports Al-Qabas daily.

The sources said that numerous companies and individuals have asked the authorities for the purposes for inflating their sums in order to buy KD 1,000 (225) for each invoice of KD 20,000; KD 900 for invoices of KD 5,000 and KD 700 for KD 1,000.

They noted that these bills are usually issued by the same company or similar companies, and the judicial authority in principle is in order to conceal the invoices, which is the practice that is attempted to hide. The situation is dangerous, given that they do not only enable the company to market bills, but also the issuer’s natural rights, the third party's rights, are covered with a deal with all cost. Their statement: “We will not tolerate those activities to continue or to waste.”

Yemeni separatists suspend talks with govt

The separatists' announcement was a response to the suspension of talks between the separatists and the government. They accused the government of supporting the Houthi rebels, and stated that they would not continue the negotiations unless the government changed its position.

3 shot, two fatally, during Wisconsin unrest; police

KENOSHA, Wis., Aug. 26 (AP) Two people died and nine others were wounded in what authorities are calling a shooting rampage in Kenosha, Wisconsin following the shooting of a Black man by police.

The shooting was reported at 11:45 p.m. in an area near the city’s harbor and lakefront. A police spokesman said the shooting involved officers trying to arrest two men. The other officer was shot, but his injuries are not life-threatening, he said. The name of the person who was shot by police has not been identified. The suspect, 29-year-old Blake, who was shot multiple times by police, is in critical condition, a police spokesman said.

The shooting of Blake on Sunday in Kenosha, — similar to others at the site of unrest — has drawn comparisons with the fatal shooting of George Floyd in Minneapolis police custody on May 25, 2020.

Earlier Tuesday, Blake’s father spoke alongside other family members and members of African-American advocacy groups.

“God is knocking on the doors of every police officer who opened fire to be arrested and others,” the Rev. Tiffany Anderson said. “The moment police opened fire, the police department lost control.”

Blake’s 29-year-old was in surgery Tuesday, said attorney Ben Crump, adding that the bullets were still inside Blake.

“Blake was nothing more than a victim looking to walk to the store,” Crump said. “That was his only sin.”

“Get him out of prison,” Crump said.

Blake’s father, father, Rayshard, killed a 3-year-old boy and his son with his own gun, Crump said. “This is an authentic person who loves this country and its people and wants to make it better for everyone.”

“The world is watching,” Crump said. “The world is watching this.”

Blake was killed by police officers who had gathered on Blake’s neck, which was wrapped in a towel, and police officers who were responding to a domestic dispute. The officers shot at Blake after he ran off, an attorney for Blake’s family said.

Thousands detained

Belarus leader seeks to stem protest gradually

MINSK, Belarus, Aug 26, (AP): When Belarusians filled the streets to protest what they called a fraudulent election that secured President Alexander Lukashenko a sixth term, the police unleashed tear gas, stun grenades and beatings. “The situation is shifting radically,” the opposition is moving to oust the authoritarian leader who has ruled the country for 26 years. In a defiant move, the European Union imposed sanctions against Belarus, but the president was unyielding. He has ordered the state security service to control the situation. He also expelled the German ambassador. The German government called the elections “fraudulent.”

Police and other security forces, who have mustered above 10,000 officers, say they have arrested more than 8,000 people. There are reports of torture and beatings. President Lukashenko said his government has released 51 detainees.

The protests have led to a government that has imposed a state of emergency. The government is considering changing the constitution to allow for new elections. Lukashenko has rejected calls for new elections, saying they would likely breach the law. He has also rejected calls to resign.

Public weariness with Lukashenko’s iron-fisted rule, further erratic moves by Lukashenko could also prompt the EU to impose further sanctions. While Lukashenko may succeed in clinging to power, his political future remains uncertain.

Lukashenko, 66, who has been in power since 1994, has faced widespread protests since the August 16 presidential election. Security forces have used tear gas, stun grenades, and beatings to disperse demonstrations. The opposition has called for new elections and has accused the government of fraud.

Lukashenko has rejected the calls for new elections, saying they would likely be unconstitutional. He has also rejected calls to resign, saying his government has released 51 detainees.

However, the European Union has imposed sanctions against Belarus, and the German government has called the elections “fraudulent.” The government has also imposed a state of emergency.

During the past 26 years, the former state farm director has maintained Soviet-style controls over the economy and security. He has also been known for his铁腕统治 and frequent violent crackdowns on opposition protests.

Govt advice on masks

Schools to reopen next week

LONDON, Aug 26, (AP): Following mounting pressure to change tack, the British government late Tuesday to ditch advice that high school students and staff opt for face masks when schools reopen next week.

In another abrupt change in coronavirus policy, the government said children under 11 years of age, in areas under local lockdown rules, and in Greater Manchester, will have to face masks when entering around common areas and communal areas. Though high school children where workers work hard, the government said schools in England will have the discretion to require them to wear masks in certain areas.

The government is to invoke less severe measures to curb the virus’ spread, including a ban on gatherings of more than six people, a requirement to wear masks in some public places, and a stronger enforcement of social distancing rules. The government is considering recommending face coverings for secondary school students to wear face masks in communal areas.

It is the government’s second sudden policy turn in as many weeks following last week’s decision to drop a mandatory travel order to allow face masks to be worn by key performers for social events.

Governing and local authorities have been divided on the issue of masks, with some backing the government’s stance and others calling for a more lenient approach. The government is considering relaxing some of the current measures once the virus’ spread is under control.

Schools in England will mostly reopen on September 1st. The government will decide on whether to reopen schools for the rest of the term in three weeks’ time.

Spend less on housing & transportation

2 costs that can ‘make’ or break your nest egg

If you want to earn more income but have trouble saving the cash to enjoy your dreams, try changing your daily habits. Research shows that you can start saving 2% of your income to retirement plans in just 30 days. So start with these 2 costs that can ‘make’ or ‘break’ your nest egg.

1. Transportation

The average household spends nearly $15,000 on transportation each year. But you don’t have to spend every dime on gas and maintenance. If you’re a frequent traveler, consider carpooling. It’s a win-win for the planet and your pocketbook.

2. Housing

Rents and mortgage payments can eat up a significant portion of your income. But if you’re willing to downsize, you can save more than you think. For example, a one-bedroom apartment in New York City can cost upwards of $2,000 per month. However, a studio apartment in a similar location might only cost you $1,500 per month. This difference can add up to more than $40,000 per year, depending on where you live.

Both studies have their limitations. It’s not all about choice

People’s personal choice of living close to work or family makes a huge difference in how much they save. It’s important to consider all factors - such as, say, losing a job or getting married - before making a major move.

Better savers also spend less on housing, transportation, and food and drink, but housing and transportation costs that can ‘make’ or ‘break’ your nest egg across the country. Living expenses are 4% higher in San Francisco and 8% higher in Manhattan than in Portland, Oregon, for example.

People’s personal choice of living close to work or family can affect some- how much they save. It’s important to consider all factors - such as, say, losing a job or getting married - before making a major move.

Honda reaches $85M settlement over airbags

Honda has reached an $85 million settlement over airbags, resolving federal and state lawsuits that it failed safety regulators to disclose problems with Takata airbags that have already killed one person and injured hundreds. The settlement, announced Tuesday, comes after months of negotiations over how to handle the largest automotive recall in history.

The settlement includes the previously announced $40 million for settling federal lawsuits and $45 million for settling state lawsuits. It also includes $5 million for a Takata recall device that can detect the presence of the airbag inflation unit.

The agreement also includes a provision that could allow Honda to avoid paying additional fines if it can prove that it took reasonable steps to address the issue before the settlement was reached.

The settlement comes after months of discussions between Honda and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, which had been investigating the company for its role in the Takata airbag recall.

The settlement includes provisions that could allow Honda to avoid paying additional fines if it can prove that it took reasonable steps to address the issue before the settlement was reached. Honda said it was committed to working with the government to ensure the safety of its vehicles.

The settlement is expected to be announced later this week.

Nordstrom’s 2Q hurt by pandemic ‘fallout’

NEW YORK, Aug. 26, (AP) — Nordstrom Inc. on Tuesday reported a larger-than-expected loss and a 50% drop in sales during the second quarter as the pandemic forced the retailer to close stores at least part of the time. The Seattle-based retailer’s biggest quarter was in the second quarter, when the company reported a loss of $1.1 billion.

The results followed a lackluster session on Wall Street, with shares of major global companies in Asia briefly falling as investors awaited the US Federal Reserve’s announcement of its bond-purchase plans. Investors are waiting to see whether the US central bank will extend its economic stimulus measures, which have sustained global equity markets.

The economy is going to come back, but I don’t think it’s going to be as robust as the market expects, said Alexander, the NRF’s executive director. Alexander said the economic recovery is going to be ‘slow and steady’ and that it will take several more quarters to see the same level of sales as before the pandemic. He also noted that the NRF expected a strong holiday season, but that has not materialized.

“Everything goes into extra mortgage payments,” he said. “Anything that’s not fixed, you’re going to try to get a good deal on it if the galaxy deals that are on, especially if there’s a recessionary period of time.”

The NRF released its annual holiday shopping outlook in early November, predicting that holiday sales would increase by 10% this year compared to last year. However, that forecast has come under fire as the pandemic continues to sputter, and many retailers are struggling to attract customers.

Overall, about half of NRF members said they expected holiday sales to increase by more than 10% this year. However, only about a third of NRF members said they expected sales to increase by more than 20%.

The NRF’s data shows that online sales are expected to increase by 17% this year, compared to an 11% increase last year. The NRF expects that more than half of all holiday purchases will be made online.

“The American economy is going to come back, but I don’t think it’s going to be as robust as the market expects,” Alexander said. “The NRF expects a strong holiday season, but that has not materialized.”

Best Buy’s Q2 online sales surge but challenges remain

Best Buy Co. reported Thursday that its Q2 online sales surge was more than tripled in the fiscal second quarter, as shoppers bought computers, tablets and large appliances to help them cook, sleep and work from home during the coronavirus pandemic. Overall, the Naples-based largest consumer electronics chain, based in Richfield, Minnesota, reported profits that beat analysts’ expectations. And overall sales rose 45% in the quarter ended Aug. 29. The quarter’s revenue was the same as a year ago during the tech-stock boom, but down from the fiscal second quarter of the prior year.

The banner year for home improvement retailer Lowe’s, which was impacted by the tech-stock boom, was going to come back, but with its second quarter, it was going to be as robust, said Groves.

And while the initial burst of aid has helped Americans, Trump — who has characterized the pandemic as a “big recession” — has been more cautious about how the federal government can help.

“People are starting to feel like their own finances might also be falling behind,” he said. “The NRF expects a strong holiday season, but that has not materialized.”

Testing still lags
US virus ‘cases’ fall as masks gain favor

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP) - The number of Americans newly diagnosed with the coronavirus is falling — a development experts say may reflect more widespread mask use as well as additional testing — even as the disease continues to kill nearly 1,000 people a day in the US and spread to more states.

“This is profoundly hopeful news,” said Dr. Deborah Birx, a top White House coronavirus advisor.

As more Americans get their faces covered, the number of those showing up to get tested is falling, which is complicating the task that public health officials have in containing the virus.

“Stills stopped for reasons we didn’t anticipate at the time. We thought people were going to keep coming on the 5th, and that each day the virus would be ‘back on the rise’ today,” Birx said.

The decline in newly reported cases in the US comes even as the world warms up to fall.

In the US, the number of cases has fallen from a daily average high of about 70,000 in late July to about 63,000 on Tuesday.

The situation has improved dramatically in some states that started with high case counts earlier this year.

“I think the constant pressure, the demand to change that’s usually done when you’re waiting for something to be approved. But more on that,” Dr. Robert Redfield, the Center for Disease Control and Prevention director, said Tuesday.

Not only was it a hit of its time (that spawned five sequels), but it has become a cultural phenomenon, with netflix's docuseries "Tiger King" becoming a huge hit. The show has become a pop culture sensation, with people all over the world tuning in to watch the story of Joe Exotic, a self-proclaimed "Tiger King" who runs a wildlife reserve in Wynnewood, Oklahoma. The show features a cast of colorful characters, including Carole Baskin, Joe's ex-wife, who is accused of murdering her first husband to get his tigers, and Joe himself, who is convicted of murder and sentenced to 20+ years in prison.

The show has been praised for its in-depth exploration of the world of exotic animal ownership and the legal battles that surround it. The show has also been criticized for its sensationalistic portrayal of some of the characters, particularly Joe Exotic, who is portrayed as a ruthless and manipulative individual.

Despite the controversy, the show has been a huge success, with millions of people tuning in to watch each episode. The show has also sparked a renewed interest in the world of exotic animal ownership, with many people searching for information about how to own tigers and other big cats.

The show has also been praised for its in-depth exploration of the legal battles that surround exotic animal ownership. The show features interviews with legal experts and animal rights activists, providing a detailed look at the legal issues that surround the ownership of exotic animals.

Gail Sheehy, author of ‘Passages,’ dead
NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP) — Gail Sheehy, the journalist and pop culture icon whose best-selling book "Passages" helped millionaires rethink their lives from comfort, privilege and age to beyond, has died.

Sheehy, widow of New York magazine founder Clay Felker, died of complications from pneumonia in Washington, D.C., according to her daughter, Montana Sheehy.

Sheehy was criticized for overgeneralizing, for focusing too closely on affluent professionals and for such job expressions as "Triple Threats." She also has been accused of using the work of endocrinologist Gail Gross and psychologist Walter Reich without giving him credit. The case was settled in 1997, though the New York Times published a detailed examination of the plagiarism in 2014.

Sheehy and Gross later adopted a girl, Momh. Sheehy (they divorced in 1968) and had a daughter, Maura. She was an award-winning New York magazine and television commentator and a well-traveled trend-settler. When not writing books, Sheehy was a popular lecturer.

Joachim ‘calls’ up three new players

FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug 25, 2020. German national soccer team coach Joachim Loew announced three new players that will join the team for its upcoming matches. The team will be announced in the next few days.

The three new players are from Eintracht Frankfurt, Borussia Mönchengladbach, and Eintracht Braunschweig. They will join the team for the upcoming matches against Spain and Switzerland.

Loew said, “I am excited to have these three players join the team. They have shown great potential and will bring fresh energy to the team.”

The matches against Spain and Switzerland will take place in September, and the team is preparing for these matches with the new players.

Crawford, Gonzales lead Mariners to 8-3 win over Padres

PHILADELPHIA, Aug 26, (AP) — Lucas Giolito pitched the 13th no-hitter in the pandemic-delayed major league season, striking out 13 and permitting just one runner in leading the Chicago White Sox over the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0 Tuesday night.

With the Series at Guaranteed Rate Field empty, the bullpen of the White Sox did not allow a hit in seven innings against the Pirates. The game was called after eight innings.

Giolito pitched the 10th in White Sox history and sixth at U.S. Cellular Field in the 16-year-old right-hander's career.

Chicago's first three batters reached base but all were thrown out at first. The last five Pirates at the plate all reached base at one time after Atlanta's Adam Duvall hit his second home run of the game and third of the season. The White Sox have beaten the Pirates in four of their past five meetings, with Chicago's win in the season series happening at Guaranteed Rate Field.

Lionel Messi scored his first goal in a Champions League game after nearly two decades with the Spanish giants. The club has confirmed that the Argentine great has sent a wire apologizing for his behavior to club officials and contesting club directors.

Murray has been in top form all season, his success is great news for Nuggets fans who have seen their team struggle in recent years. Murray’s ability to get to the basket and score at all levels has been impressive for a player who was not highly recruited out of high school.

The Nuggets’ season has been a rollercoaster, with losses in some games and wins in others. Murray’s performance has been a testament to his dedication and hard work.

The Nuggets will face the Los Angeles Lakers in the Western Conference finals, and Murray will be key to their success. His ability to get to the basket and score will be crucial as the Lakers have a strong defense.

Barcelona’s announcement came 11 days after Barcelona’s humiliating 8-2 loss to Bayern in the Champions League quarterfinals, one of the worst defeats in the player’s career and in the club’s history. The defeat caused a difficult winter for Barcelona - the first without a title since 2017/18 - and ignited one of its worst crises ever. Messi had been rumoured about his dissatisfaction, with some of his teammates.

Messi was interviewed on Tuesday, where he hinted at the team’s problems and called on club directors. Sporting director Eric Abidal, who was characterized by Messi, left the club last week.

Messi has been silent since the loss to Bayern, raising doubts about his future. The defeat may have been the tipping point for the playmaker. He and his teammates faced criticism from the club last week.

Barcelona, Spain, Aug. 25 (AP). Donadio of Italy, who scored both goals and countless assists, lifted Barça’s center to the front of the Champions League. Barcelona achieved the victory in the first 45 minutes of the match.

Murray had a slightly better game than his teammate Donadio, who scored both goals, but both players were key to the victory.

Murray took over late after his team fell behind. The dynamic tandem of Murray and Donadio has been the key to Barcelona’s success so far this season.

The Spanish season would normally have ended in May but was pushed back due to the coronavirus pandemic.

Barcelona announced it would make a decision on the future of the team’s players, but it is expected that Messi will stay.

Murray’s performance has been impressive and he has been a key player for Barcelona. His goal-scoring ability and teamwork have been crucial for the team’s success.
