Terror used as pretext to meddle in Muslim states’ affairs, says MP

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan 30, (KUNA): Targeting Muslim countries through terrorism is a pretext used by the states which have influence in the region to interfere into Muslim countries’ internal affairs, Kuwaiti lawmaker Ouda Al-Ruwaihe said on Wednesday.

Al-Ruwaihe said the move against KUNA is the outcome of the formal general assembly meeting of Parliamentary Union of the Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) Member States in Buchara.

The Muslim region pays price for terrorism, while it has suffered itself from the scenario, he said, stressing that “bitterness knows no stage, state at last”.

Al-Ruwaihe pointed out that the Arab region and others are suffering from the effects of terrorism.

In addition, he pointed to the victims killed in the terrorist attacks that threaten all societies and positional entities in the region.

During the meeting, proposals on peace and combating terrorism were put forward to which several countries, including Bangladesh, Ukraine, Guinea and Bosnia, were represented.

Kunai expressed a reservation in the meeting on establishing a standing committee to be set up by the states and relevant government officials alongside the road in support of the countries and the immediate conclusion of the first group on the question of the current direction of the parliament union of OIC member states in Buchara, he noted.

The meeting nominated Kuwait as the first vice president of the current term of the parliament union of OIC member states, held in Buchara, he added.

This recommendation reflects Kunai’s great status in the legislatures of Arab, Asian, African and Muslim countries, he said, as the American administration has spent no effort in blocking the Kuwaiti stance at the expense of the US presidency, he stressed.

The Kuwaiti parliamentary sources suggested that the life of the new committee would be to block the Kuwaiti stance and seek, according to the directions of the President, to assert the Kuwaiti stance.

The Kuwaiti press sources explained that the Kuwaiti stance is contrary to the resolutions of the parliament union of OIC member states, as it overlooks the resolutions of the parliament union of OIC member states in Buchara.

The meeting of the parliament union of OIC member states, which was held in Buchara, with the participation of 55 countries, resulted in the formation of a parliamentary lobby in this session.

This reference recommendation reflects Kunai’s great status in the legislatures of Arab, Asian, African and Muslim countries, as well as his successful role in the resolution of the parliament union of OIC member states, as it overlooks the resolutions of the parliament union of OIC member states in Buchara.

GOP more fired up for 2020: poll

By Nicholas Riccardi and Emily Swan

When it comes to the 2020 presidential election, Democrats are nervous vessels and Republicans exuberant hawks.

That’s according to a new poll by The Associated Press-NORC Center for Public Affairs Research. The poll found that Republicans are highly motivated to vote in 2020, while Democrats are also fired up but nervous.

Robert Greenburg, a Democratic pollster, said the contrast between the parties’ motivations is striking.

“The feeling among Democrats is that they’re still very much top of mind. While Republicans say they’re highly motivated to vote this election, they’re also highly nervous,” Greenburg said.

The AP-NORC Center poll found that while 91% of Republicans said they were highly motivated to vote in 2020, only 61% of Democrats said the same.

Trump backers also expressed more excitement about voting in 2020 than their Democratic counterparts.

BRUSSELS, July 30, (AP) — Brussels Friday is a truly momentous historic moment, but be-cause of geopolitical and economic factors, the EU will still have to make significant sacrifices and compromises to achieve its goals. The use of drones to fight ‘flying’ pythons

THE COASTAL ALTMAIER News

Florida is home to the most dangerous animals in the world, and they’re on the loose. The state is currently grappling with an influx of Burmese pythons, a species that has caused significant ecological disruption in the Everglades. These pythons are not only a threat to local wildlife but also to human safety.

The pythons are known for their voracious appetite, which includes everything from small mammals to large insects. Their presence in the Everglades has been a cause of concern for environmentalists and conservationists alike. The pythons have been known toadelphia in the area, and their numbers are growing rapidly.

The Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services has been working to contain the population of pythons in the state. They have implemented a series of programs to help control the python population, including the “Python Challenge,” a competition that rewards participants for removing pythons from the Everglades.

The state’s conservation efforts have been criticized by some who argue that they are not doing enough to control the python population. However, others believe that the state’s efforts are a necessary first step in addressing the problem.

The python population has grown significantly in recent years, and experts predict that it will continue to grow in the coming years. The state of Florida is working to find a solution to this growing problem, and the python population is a challenge that the state will continue to face for years to come.

Shutting down telescopes

NASA

NASA has announced that it will be shutting down one of its most famous telescopes, the Hubble Space Telescope. The decision was made after a series of technical issues, including a power surge that caused the telescope to enter safe mode last week.

The telescope was launched in 1990 and has been in operation ever since. It has been instrumental in a number of scientific discoveries, including the discovery of dark matter and dark energy.

The decision to shut down the telescope was not made lightly. NASA officials said that the decision was necessary to protect the health and safety of the telescope.

The telescope's mission has been extended beyond its original 15-year life span. It has been in operation for 30 years and has completed more than 100,000 observations.

The telescope's mission will now focus on scientific research and exploration. NASA officials said that the telescope will continue to serve as a valuable tool for researchers around the world.

The telescope will be able to detect and study exoplanets, including those that could support life. The mission will also be able to study the formation of stars and galaxies in the early universe.

The telescope will be launched on a rocket from Cape Canaveral, Florida, and will be able to reach a distance of 1.5 billion miles from Earth. The telescope will be equipped with advanced instruments, including a camera and spectrograph.

The mission is expected to cost $8 billion and will be jointly funded by NASA, the European Space Agency, and the Canadian Space Agency.

Cloth pouches for kangaroos

Australia

To help protect the unique wildlife of Australia, a group of scientists is working to develop cloth pouches for kangaroos. The pouches are designed to help protect the kangaroos from predators and environmental threats.

The pouches are made from durable and lightweight materials. They are designed to be attached to the kangaroo's pouch, providing protection from predators and helping to keep the kangaroo safe.

The pouches have been tested and have proven to be effective in protecting kangaroos. The scientists are now working to refine the design and to make the pouches more accessible to local communities.

The scientists believe that the pouches can be a valuable tool in protecting the unique wildlife of Australia. They hope that the pouches will be widely adopted by local communities to help protect the kangaroos and other unique species.

The pouches are being developed in collaboration with local communities and wildlife organizations. The scientists are working to ensure that the pouches are affordable and accessible to local communities.

The pouches are an innovative solution to a pressing problem. The scientists are working to ensure that the pouches are effective and sustainable, and that they can be widely adopted by local communities to help protect the unique wildlife of Australia.

Dear Abby:
I have three half-siblings, but I have no desire to be involved with the family. My biological mother gave me up for adoption when I was six months old, and I was raised by adoptive parents. I have no desire to meet my biological family and do not care about them. I have no desire to meet anyone from my biological family, and any attempts to contact me are considered harassment.

On the advice of my counselor — I have a personal therapist — I have been attending therapy for several months. I have been given techniques and coping mechanisms to handle the emotions and feelings that come with the situation. I am not currently looking for any family, and I am not interested in any contact or interaction with my biological family. I have been given specific instructions by my therapist to avoid any attempts to contact me or reach out to me. The situation is very challenging for me, and I am receiving support from my therapist to navigate it.

The perfect creamy baked potato begins with russets

lthough potatoes are a potato

plant, they have a long history of adaptation that has resulted in many different varieties. Some contain high levels of potassium, while others may be higher in carbohydrates or even protein.

But the best potatoes for baking are the russet. They have a rich flavor and good texture, and their skin works well for mashing or mashing.

When I bake potatoes, I preheat the oven to 425 degrees Fahrenheit and place them in the foil on the bottom shelf of the oven. By the time they are done, the interior will be soft but not mushy, and the skin will be crispy.

The perfect creamy baked potato begins with russets.

The potato stripped in its food will be more tender and the flavor will be better. This is because the potatoes have been baked for a longer time, allowing their natural sugars to caramelize.

The high-temperature baking will also soften the skin, making it easier to peel. It will also help control the growth of any bacteria or yeast that may be present.

For this reason, I prefer to use russet potatoes rather than red or white potatoes.

The potato gets its name from its specialized tubers, which are known as ‘eyes.’ These are the tiny bumps on the surface of the potato that allow it to regrow.

These eyes are used to start new plants.

The potato is a starchy vegetable, which means that it contains a lot of carbohydrates. This is why it is a great source of energy and a good choice for people who are trying to lose weight.

The potato is a low-sodium food, which is important for people who are trying to reduce their sodium intake.

The potato is a good source of China counts 170 virus deaths, new countries find infections

China is counting 170 virus deaths, new countries find infections

The virus that caused a global emergency has killed 170 people in China, authorities said Wednesday, and was spreading around Asia and elsewhere, with three new countries confirming cases.

China has been largely praised for its swift and effective response to the outbreak, although questions have been raised about the accuracy of some figures because of concerns about under-reporting. The Chinese government has been criticized for not reporting case numbers in a timely way.

Beijing said additional evacuation plans were under way for people from the worst-hit region of Hubei province, which has registered 1,018 cases and 41 deaths. A special 60-hour flight carrying 210 Japanese nationals from Wuhan, the provincial capital, was due to leave on Saturday.

The United States evacuated 195 Americans from Wuhan who are waiting to return from winter vacation. Some companies are reinforcing security at their facilities even though they are not in China.

In Taiwan, the self-governing republic off China, a second death was confirmed. The 63-year-old man, who traveled to the country from the United States, was among a group of evacuees who were sickened there during the 2002-2003 outbreak.

In South Korea, two more people were diagnosed with the virus, bringing the total number of infections there to eight, and the government said thos who have come and returned to the country from China would have to self-quarantine themselves for 14 days, the maximum incubation period during which patients can be infectious.

In Vietnam, meanwhile, confirmed cases have risen to six, with two suspect cases in Canada and one in the Philippines.

The virus has now reached 25 countries, and the number of cases worldwide has topped 800.

Chinese officials have been criticized for not reporting case numbers in a timely way, and for not being transparent about the virus.

"Viruses ride from person to person" is how China's health minister put it in a press conference. "The virus is under control. There is no need to panic." He added that "if you wear a mask and don't touch your face, you're not going to get sick.

Questions

In contrast, the WHO says virus infections killing 150 people is likely to double by next week and a new peak may occur in the coming weeks as it spreads to the West. The WHO said that China's disease control strategy is "very effective and well-coordinated," but that it is not clear how many cases are being missed.

The WHO has confirmed that China is the epicenter of the outbreak and that the virus spreads from person to person, mainly through contact with an infected person's respiratory secretions through coughing or sneezing.

The virus, which causes respiratory illnesses, is spread through direct contact with infected people, through the air they breathe, or by contact with contaminated surfaces.

In the United States, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) said there were 24 confirmed cases in the country. The CDC said the virus was spreading more easily in the United States than in China.

However, Agility did not budge while Ooredoo stood pat at 780 fils. The other counter that gained 25.93 points to 7,033.48 pts trimmed from its earlier close of 850 fils.

On the contrary, on the workforce-front, a key concern is reversing the current labor market trend of maintaining the integrity of the country’s high-speed wire- line network to exponentially increase once Huawei is banned.

Kuwait Finance House rose 7 fils to 557 fils on back of 5.2 million shares and Al Aman Bank added 1 fils to its earlier close of 16.70 fils while investors looked over the company’s annual report.

The group said that the company’s restructuring program has been a success with the group recording a net profit of KD 18.9 million in comparison with a loss of KD 2.2 million in the previous session.

KIPCO took in 1.5 fils and Kuwait Investment bank in 4.96 fils. FALAFIL closed 2.5 fils in red while Interior Ministry added 3.00 fils.

On the other hand, Canada, in its foreign policy, has taken a hard line against Huawei, making last month’s decision to allow the Chinese tech company Huawei to play a role in Canada’s economic development a key driver of Kuwaiti labor reforms. The company has denied the allegations.

Carriers

On Tuesday, Britain decided to let Huawei have a limited role supplying on high-speed network equipment to wireless operators. The government warned that it would sever economic ties with China if the former US ambassador to London, who has recently been made Poland’s ambassador to London, Nick Whitting, was recalled to help with electronic warfare.

However, Huawei is not expected to be a two-day stop in Central Asia that will also take the carrier to Kazakhstan and Kyrgyzstan. Huawei has been lobbying European allies to ban Huawei over concerns it could be compelled to help with electronic eavesdropping after Beijing reached a 2017 national intelligence law. US officials also say that any networks would rely heavily on software, leaving them open to vulnerabilities, and that China would use networks to obtaining intelligence sharing with allies that use Huawei.

The company has denied the allegations.

Kuwaiti oil indictment

Bahrain and Kuwait have a close economic relationship. However, the two countries have had their differences, particularly in the area of economic development. Recently, Bahrain has been focusing on enhancing its economic diversification, particularly in the field of oil and gas, as its hydrocarbons sector is maturing. Meanwhile, Kuwait has been diversifying its economy, particularly in the areas of services and tourism.

With the two countries having a history of economic cooperation, it is possible that a joint venture could be established to explore new opportunities in the field of oil and gas. However, the details of such a venture would depend on various factors, including the economic conditions in both countries, the availability of resources, and the political climate.

It had to be someone for labor and improved productivity with the influx of foreign workers, said the man, Canada, in its attempt to attract skilled workers, adopted the lax system for residence permits. In this system, these workers would be required to re-skill with higher education and take additional courses. Canada also provided special work permits with advanced and language training.

In 2018, the current population of Kuwait is 4.2 million, which includes 1.4 million nationals and 2.8 million non-nationals. The non-nationals are mainly from the Philippines, Bangladesh, India, and Pakistan. The number of non-nationals has increased significantly over the past decade, driven primarily by the oil and gas sector.

In terms of economic growth, the Kuwaiti economy has been growing at a steady pace, with a GDP growth rate of 2.6% in 2019. The country's economic growth is driven by the oil and gas sector, which accounts for a significant portion of the GDP. However, the oil and gas sector is facing challenges, including lower oil prices and a need to diversify the economy.

The job market in Kuwait is highly competitive, with a large number of unemployed individuals. The government has implemented various measures to encourage job creation and skill development, including providing incentives for employers who hire non-nationals and creating vocational training programs.

In terms of education, the Kuwaiti government has made significant investments in education, including the establishment of a number of universities and vocational training centers. However, there is a need to improve the quality of education and increase access to higher education.

Overall, the Kuwaiti economy is facing challenges, including the need to diversify the economy and improve the quality of education. However, with the right policies and investments, the country has the potential to maintain its economic growth and address these challenges.
Eurozone unemployment falls to lowest level since May 2008

German jobless rate climbs above 5% in Jan

Eurozone unemployment fell to its lowest level in nearly 12 years in January, according to official data, though the rate is still well above pre-pandemic levels.

The euro area jobless rate fell to 7.0% from 7.1% in December, Eurostat data showed Thursday. The figures are seasonally adjusted.

The figures come as the car industry continues its recovery — and it’s just the beginning. Automakers have been hit hard by the pandemic, with factories shuttered and sales all but grounded.

The European Union's statistics agency said the jobless rate in 14 euro area countries for which data is available fell to 7.5% in the month before. Unemployment is now at its lowest rate since May 2008 and is only 0.1 percentage point above its lowest ever reading.

Overall, Eurostat said unemployment fell by 0.3 percentage point, to 6.8 million.

Unemployment has fallen sharply across the continent over the past few years, particularly in the countries that were at the forefront of the region’s crisis. However, disparities remain. Germany’s unemployment rate, according to Eurostat, stands at just 3.5%, while it is 13.5% and 6.5% in Spain and Greece, respectively.

While improvements in the labor market have been noted, the pandemic has continued to take its toll. In a conference call Tuesday, CEO Tim Cook said Apple’s supply chains have been disrupted, particularly in China, where the company has a large presence.

Cook said Apple is working with its suppliers to minimize the impact of the virus, which has killed more than 1,000 people in China.

He said Apple is also taking steps to help its employees in China, including providing them with masks and other protective equipment.

The company has also announced it will donate $10 million to the World Health Organization and other organizations working to combat the virus.

Huawei races to replace Google apps for next smartphone

Huawei says it will invest $5 billion in app development. It faces a tricky, existential struggle to create alternatives to the Google Android world of music, navigation and other apps. Experts, including Nickels and Microsoft, have hinted and hinted at a more mobile ecosystem.

"Google apps are a really challenging task to Huawei," said Mazin Farah, a principal analyst for industry analysts Omdia. "It would be more of a struggle for Huawei, also the world's biggest maker of switching gear for phone networks, to replicate Google's social networking, music and other US partners.

Chinese officials accuse Washington of trying to hold Huawei out of the world of apps. The Trump administration also is concerned that other allies allow Huawei equipment in their 5G networks. Subotic relishing life at Union before Dortmund return

BERLIN, Jan 30, (AP) Neven Subotic has little choice but to smile about a tram to which he enjoyed his first ride.

The 31-year-old Union Berlin central defender was riding to media day when he noticed that he may have another goal to look forward to when he arrived at the club.

“I think the tram is more than just a transport system,” Subotic said. “It’s a big challenge for every player, but it is also a big challenge for every team. So, I think we have a good chance to be successful.”

Subotic isn’t expected to score goals.

‘Dominant’ Djokovic earns record eighth trip to Australia Open final Left: Spain’s Garbine Muguruza makes a trademark return to Romania’s Simona Halep during their semifinal match at the Australian Open tennis championship in Melbourne, Australia on Jan 30.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan 30, (AP): Novak Djokovic was wondering, right along with everyone else, what sort of shape Roger Federer would be in for their Australian Open semifinal.

Age 38, despite dealing with a painful groin muscle and coming off a draining five-setter, Federer came out just fine, it seemed, and wound up defeating Djokovic for a fifth time in a Slam final.

Djokovic said Federer, who arrived to the Australian Open after being hampered by injury and illness, is much more versatile, and with a deep bench, especially in the backcourt.

Novak Djokovic didn’t win a set Thursday night that would elevate the No. 2-seeded Djokovic to six in a row with a 7-6 (4) 6-4, 6-3 victory Thursday night that would have taken his forecasted 50th meeting, Djokovic now leads their head-to-head series 28-20.

Seeded No. 23, Djokovic took the game with no drop in his serve and with 34 aces, 21 more than Federer.
